PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2020: The EEOC successfully combated and prevented employment discrimination through the strategic application of the EEOC's law enforcement authorities by ensuring that private sector complaints and charges are handled promptly and efficiently. In fiscal year 2020, the EEOC continued to prioritize reaching a manageable and sustainable private sector inventory to focus on charges with merit and provide improved customer service. The results of this focus on the private sector inventory achieved a reduced charge workload of 3.7 percent to 41,951, which builds on the 12.1 percent decline in inventory realized in fiscal year 2019 and is the lowest pending inventory achieved by the agency in over 14 years. As a result of Commission staff having devoted additional time and resources to meritorious cases, the merit factor rate in private sector increased to 17.4% while obtaining approximately $333.2 million for victims of employment discrimination in private sector and state and local government workplaces through mediation, conciliation, and settlements. The agency's mediation program achieved 6,272 successful mediations resulting in over $156.6 million in benefits to charging parties, and meritorious charges were resolved with a 43.6% successful conciliation rate and with targeted, equitable relief (TER) obtained in 92.9% of the conciliation agreements. Technological innovation continued to be a significant contributor to efficiencies in our interactions with the public and in our internal processes, with the continued refinement of the Digital Charge System, which saw more than 122,775 inquiries initiated through the systems online intake and appointment scheduling component. In fiscal year 2020, the EEOC received almost 470,000 calls to its toll-free number, more than 37,300 emails, and over 187,000 inquiries in field offices. Overall, this resulted in 67,448 charges of employment discrimination being filed with the EEOC.

REGULATIONS, GUIDELINES, AND LITERATURE:

A large number of publications are available on the EEOC web site (www.eeoc.gov). To request documents in alternative formats (Braille, large print, etc), contact EEOC at (202) 663-4191. Regulations include those implementing the employment provisions of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), 29 CFR 1630. In addition to these regulations, the website also contains a range of guidances and resource documents that explain various parts of the ADA. These include resource documents addressing various disabilities (include blindness, deafness, intellectual disabilities, and psychiatric disabilities). Also available are publications on reasonable accommodation issues, the timing and scope of employer medical questions and examinations, the overlap between the ADA, FMLA and workers compensation, and the application of the ADA to job applicants and contingent workers.

30.013 Employment Discrimination-Title II of the Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008

GINA Title II,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION

AUTHORIZATION:

The Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008, Title II, , Public Law 110-233, 42 USC Code 2000ff. Statute 122-881, Public Law 10-233, 42 USC Code 2000ff.

OBJECTIVES:

Title II of GINA prohibits the use of genetic information in making employment decisions, restricts employers and other entities covered by Title II (employment agencies, labor organizations and joint labor-management training and apprenticeship programs) from requesting, requiring or purchasing genetic information, and strictly limits the disclosure of genetic information. Title II of GINA also prohibits retaliation against applicants or employees for filing a charge of discrimination, participating in a discrimination proceeding (such as a discrimination investigation or lawsuit), or otherwise opposing discrimination. Genetic information includes information about an individual's genetic tests and the genetic tests of an individual's family members, as well as information about the manifestation of a disease or disorder in an individual's family members (i.e. family medical history). Genetic information also includes an individual's request for, or receipt of, genetic services, or the participation in clinical research that includes genetic services by the individual or a family member of the individual, and the genetic information of a fetus carried by an individual or by a pregnant woman who is a family member of the individual and the genetic information of any embryo legally held by the individual or family member using an assisted reproductive technology.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Advisory Services and Counseling, Federal Employment, Investigation of Complaints, Salaries and Expenses

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Individuals are protected from discrimination on the basis of genetic information by employers with 15 or more employees, federal agencies, employment agencies, labor organizations, and joint labor-management training and apprenticeship programs. The EEOC has an assessment tool, available at <https://publicportal.eeoc.gov/portal/Login.aspx?ReturnUrl=%2fportal%2f>, to enable individuals to determine whether EEOC is the appropriate agency to contact regarding discrimination, harassment, or retaliation at the hands of a private sector employer or state or local government. Charges of discriminatory employment practices by a private sector employer or a state or local government can be filed by or on behalf of an individual or group of individuals claiming to be aggrieved. Mediation may be offered to the parties involved. If mediation is not used or is not successful, an investigation may ensue. If, after its investigation, the Commission determines that there is reasonable cause to believe that discrimination has occurred, it will attempt to resolve the charge informally through conciliation. If conciliation proves to be unsuccessful and the employer is not a state or local government, the Commission may bring a civil action against the respondent(s) named in the charge or issue a right to sue letter to the party who filed the charge, giving him or her the right to file a civil action in federal court. If conciliation fails on a charge against a state or local government, EEOC refers the case to the

ASSISTANCE LISTINGS DESCRIPTIONS

Department of Justice for consideration of litigation or issuance of a right to sue letter. If based upon its investigation, the EEOC is unable to conclude that the information obtained establishes violations of the statutes, the charge is dismissed and the charging party is issued a Notice of Right to Sue. This does not certify that the respondent is in compliance with the statutes, investigation, proceeding, or litigation.

Applicant Eligibility:

U.S. Territories and possessions (includes institutions of higher education and hospitals); Individual/Family; Minority group; Profit organization; Anyone/general public; Native American Organizations (includes Indian groups, cooperatives, corporations, partnerships, associations); Any aggrieved individual, or any individual, labor union, association, legal representative, or organization filing on behalf of an aggrieved individual, who has reason to believe that an unlawful employment practice within the meaning of Title II of GINA has been committed by an employer, federal agency, an employment agency, labor organization, or joint labor-management committee controlling apprenticeship or other training or retraining, or on-the-job training programs. Any aggrieved individual who believes that he or she has been retaliated against for opposing employment practices that discriminate on the basis of genetic information or who files a charge of discrimination, testifies, or participates in any way in an investigation, proceeding, or litigation under Title II of GINA.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Individual/Family; Anyone/general public; Applicants, current employees, or former employees of the named respondent(s) who have been subjected to employment practices based on genetic information by the named respondent(s), and/or who have been subjected to retaliation for filing a charge of discrimination, opposing discrimination or participating in a Title II of GINA investigation, proceeding, or litigation.

Credentials/Documentation:

A claim of unlawful employment practice(s) may be made online, in person, by mail, or by fax. An allegation must be in writing, signed, and verified; the charge may also need to be notarized when required by state or local laws. Charge forms (EEOC Form 5, Charge of Discrimination) are available to all persons from field offices of the Commission. Individuals may also consult EEOCs website at <http://www.eeoc.gov/employees/howtofile.cfm> for detailed information about filing a charge. Federal government applicants or employees should consult EEOCs website at http://www.eeoc.gov/federal/fed_employees/complaint_overview.cfm for details about filing an employment discrimination complaint against a federal agency. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Pre-application coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. A charge may be filed by any aggrieved individual, any individual on behalf of an aggrieved individual, or by any organization, i.e., labor union, association, legal representative, etc., either as an aggrieved entity or on behalf of an aggrieved individual. Charges may be filed online, in person, by mail, or by fax at the nearest field office of the EEOC. Complaints against the federal government should be filed at the relevant agency's EEO office. Each agency is required to post information about how to contact the agency's EEO office.

Award Procedure:

A charge is sufficient when the Commission receives from the person making the charge a written signed statement that includes an allegation of discrimination, the name(s) of the parties involved, and a request that the EEOC act to protect the applicant or employees rights or otherwise settle a dispute between the applicant or employee and the employer.

Deadlines:

Not Applicable.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Other. Title II of GINA requires that charges be filed within 180 days of the date of the alleged violation, within 300 days if the charge is also covered by a state or local anti-discrimination law, or within 30 days of receipt of notice of termination of state or local proceedings, whichever is earlier. If the evidence does not establish that discrimination occurred, charging parties will be given written notice of their right to sue. A charging party may file a lawsuit within 90 days after receiving a notice of a right to sue from the EEOC. Under Title II of GINA, a charging party also can request a notice of right to sue from EEOC 180 days after the charge was first filed with the Commission, and may then bring suit within 90 days after receiving this notice. When a right to sue letter is issued at the request of the charging party, EEOC usually stops its investigation. Federal job applicants or employees must generally contact the agency's EEO Counselor within 45 days from the date the discrimination occurred.

Participation begins with determining if a health care provider is eligible to participate in the program. Health care providers will submit applications to the FCC containing descriptions of the intended use of the funding. Applications will be reviewed by the FCC. The FCC's goal is to target funding to areas that have been particularly hardest hit by the COVID-19 pandemic and where the support will have the most impact on addressing health care needs. The Wireline Competition Bureau will make funding decisions based on these criteria and the information included in the application.

32.007 Connected Care Pilot Program

Connected Care Pilot Program,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

AUTHORIZATION:

Section 254(h)(2)(A) of the Telecommunications Act of 1996 authorizes the Commission to establish the Pilot Program to help defray health care providers eligible costs of providing connected care services to low-income or veteran patients. Specifically, section 254(h)(2)(A) directs the Commission to establish competitively neutral rules [] to enhance, to the extent technically feasible and economically reasonable, access to advanced telecommunications and information services for all public and nonprofit . . . health care providers. The Pilot Program will fund broadband connectivity for participating health care providers and patients, certain network equipment, and other information services that may facilitate the provision of connected care services provided through the Pilot Program. These connected care services may be defined as either telecommunications services or information services. The Pilot Program is also consistent with the directive that the Commission base policies for the advancement of universal service on the principles outlined in section 254(b) of the Act. Specifically, section 254(b)(2) provides that [a]ccess to advanced telecommunications and information services should be provided in all regions of the Nation and section 254(b)(3) provides that [c]onsumers in all regions of the Nation, including low-income consumers and those in rural, insular, and high cost areas, should have access to telecommunications and information services, including interexchange services and advanced telecommunications and information services, that are reasonably comparable to those services provided in urban areas and that are available at rates that are reasonably comparable to rates charged for similar services in urban areas. The Pilot Program will fund eligible health care provider purchases of broadband Internet access services for participating patients to use for purposes of connected care services., Title Telecommunications Act of 1996, Part , Section 254(h)(2)(A)

OBJECTIVES:

Telehealth has assumed a critical role in health care delivery as technology and improved broadband connectivity have enabled patients to access health care services without needing to visit a health care providers physical location. Advances in telehealth are transforming health care from a service delivered through traditional brick and mortar health care facilities to connected care options delivered via a broadband Internet access connection directly to the patients home or mobile location. Despite the numerous benefits of connected care services, patients who cannot afford or who otherwise lack reliable, robust broadband Internet access connectivity, including many low-income Americans and veterans, are not realizing the benefits of these innovative telehealth technologies. The costs necessary to provide connected care services may also limit some health care providers ability to treat patients, particularly low-income Americans and veterans, with connected care services. To address this, the Federal Communications Commission (Commission) established the Connected Care Pilot Program (Pilot Program) within the Universal Service Fund (USF or Fund) that will make available up to $100 million over three years to examine how the Fund can help support the trend towards connected care services, particularly for low-income Americans and veterans. The Pilot Program will help defray eligible health care providers costs of providing connected care services, with a particular emphasis on supporting these services for eligible low-income Americans and veterans. The Commission expects that the Pilot Program will benefit many low-income and veteran patients who are responding to a wide variety of health challenges such as diabetes management, opioid dependency, high-risk pregnancies, pediatric heart disease, mental health conditions, and cancer. The Commission also expects that the Pilot Program will provide meaningful data that will help better understand how USF funds can support health care provider and patient use of connected care services, and how supporting health care provider and patient use of connected care services can improve health outcomes and reduce health care costs.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Payments for Specified Use

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Connected Care Pilot Program will provide support to purchase telecommunications, information services, and certain network equipment. Funds cannot be used for ineligible expenses such as administrative costs, personnel costs, training, or medical provider costs/salaries. Funding may only be applied to eligible services and equipment.

Applicant Eligibility:

Public nonprofit institution/organization (includes institutions of higher education and hospitals); 1. The applicant must be a public or nonprofit entity.2. The applicant must be one of the following:a. post-secondary educational institutions offering health care instruction, teaching hospitals, and medical schools; b. community health centers or health centers providing health care to migrants; c. local health departments or agencies; d. community mental health centers; e. not-for-profit hospitals; f. rural health clinics; g. skilled nursing facilities; or h. consortia of health care providers consisting of one or more entities falling into the first seven categories.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Veteran/Service person/Reservist (including dependents; Low Income; The Commission will have a strong preference for pilot projects that can demonstrate that they will primarily benefit low-income individuals or veterans. For purposes of the Pilot Program, health care providers can determine whether a patient is considered low-income by determining whether (1) the patient is eligible for Medicaid or (2) the patients household income is at or below 135% of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Federal Poverty Guidelines. Health care providers may determine whether a patient qualifies as a veteran for purposes of the Pilot Program by confirming that the patient qualifies for health care through the VA. The Commission expects that pilot projects focused on serving veterans will primarily focus on veteran populations that are more likely to experience issues accessing health care.

32.008 Emergency Broadband Benefit Program

Emergency Broadband Benefit Program (EBBP),

FEDERAL AGENCY:

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

AUTHORIZATION:

Public Law 116-260

OBJECTIVES:

In an effort to slow the spread of COVID-19, there has been a dramatic disruption of many aspects of Americans lives, including social distancing measures to prevent person-to-person transmission that have required the closure of businesses and schools across the country for indefinite periods of times, which in turn has caused millions of Americans to become newly unemployed or unable to find work. These closures have also led people to turn to virtual learning, telemedicine, and telework to enable social distancing measures, which has only increased every households need for access to broadband services. The cost of broadband services can be difficult to overcome for low-income families and for families that have been struggling during the pandemic. On December 27, 2020, the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021 (Consolidated Appropriations Act) was signed into law. Among other actions intended to provide relief during the pandemic, the Consolidated Appropriations Act established an Emergency Broadband Connectivity Fund of $3.2 billion in the Treasury of the United States for the fiscal year 2021. The Act directs the Federal Communications Commission (FCC or Commission) to use that fund to establish an Emergency Broadband Benefit Program (EBB Program), under which eligible low-income households may receive a discount off the cost of broadband service and certain connected devices during an emergency period relating to the COVID-19 pandemic, and participating providers can receive a reimbursement for such discounts. The Consolidated Appropriations Act further provides that no more than 2% of the Emergency ETCs and non-ETCs must establish they provide broadband service to participate in the program. Household Eligibility: Support is available only for one line per household; applicants are eligible if at least one member of the household: Meets the qualifications for participation in the Lifeline program, that is, if their income is at or below 135% of the federal poverty guidelines or if they participate in one of the following federal assistance programs: Medicaid, Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, Supplemental Security Income, Federal Public Housing Assistance, or Veterans Pension and Survivors Benefit; or one of the following Tribal-specific federal assistance programs: Bureau of Indian Affairs general assistance, Tribally-administered Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, Head Start (only those households meeting its income qualifying standard), or the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations; Receives benefits under the free and reduced-price school lunch program or the school breakfast program, including through the USDA Community Eligibility Provision, or did so in the 2019-2020 school year; Has experienced a substantial loss of income since February 29, 2020, and the household had a total income in 2020 at or below $99,000 for single filers and $198,000 for joint filers; Has received a Federal Pell Grant under section 401 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 in the current award year; or Meets the eligibility criteria for a participating providers existing low-income or COVID-19 program, subject to approval by the Commission.

Participating providers must submit one reimbursement claim for each month they are claiming support by the 15th, or the following business day if the 15th falls on a holiday or weekend, after each data month. Eligible households may receive a one-time discount of up to $100 for qualifying connected devices.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503 To clarify the statement above, per 2 CFR 200.1, a Non-Federal entity means a State, local government, Indian tribe, Institution of Higher Education, or nonprofit organization that carries out a Federal award as a recipient or subrecipient. The Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021 requires the FCC to adopt audit requirements to ensure that participating providers are in compliance with the program rules and to prevent waste, fraud, and abuse in the EBB Program. A finding of waste, fraud, or abuse or an improper payment identified by the FCC or the FCC's Inspector General of the FCC must include (1) the name of the participating provider; (2) the amount of funding made available from the EBB Program to the provider; (3) the amount of funding determined to be an improper payment to the provider; (4) a description of to what extent funding made available from the EBB Program that was an improper payment was used for a reimbursement for a connected device or a reimbursement for an internet service offering; (5) whether, in the case of a connected device, such device, or the value thereof, has been recovered; (6) whether any funding from the EBB Program was made available to a participating provider for an emergency broadband benefit for a person outside the eligible household; and (7) whether any funding from the EBB Program was made available to reimburse a participating provider for an emergency broadband benefit made available to an eligible household in which all members of such household necessary to satisfy the eligibility requirements were deceased. The FCC's Office of Managing Director is developing an audit process of participating providers that complies with all the requirements above. In addition, within one year of the date of the enactment of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, the FCCs Office of Inspector General must also conduct an audit of the disbursements made to a representative sample of participating providers.

Records:

Participating providers must maintain records to document compliance with all FCC requirements governing the EBB Program for at least six full calendar years and provide that documentation to the Commission or USAC upon request. Participating providers must maintain the documentation related to the eligibility determination and reimbursement claims for an EBB Program subscriber for as long as the subscriber receives the Emergency Broadband Benefit discount from that participating provider, but for no less than six full calendar years after the last date of delivery of the supported services and/or connected devices provided through the Emergency Broadband Benefit Program.

Emergency Connectivity Fund Program,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

AUTHORIZATION:

Public Law 117-2

OBJECTIVES:

In section 7402 of the American Rescue Plan Act (Act), Congress established a $7.171 billion Emergency Connectivity Fund (ECF) in the U.S. Treasury and directed the Federal Communications Commission (FCC or Commission) not later than 60 days after enactment of the Act to promulgate rules providing for the distribution of ECF support to eligible schools and libraries for the purchase of eligible equipment and/or advanced telecommunications and information services for use by students, school staff, and library patrons at locations including locations other than a school or library. On May 10, 2021, the FCC adopted a Report and Order entitled Establishing the Emergency Connectivity Fund to Close the Homework Gap, WC Docket No. 21-93, Report and Order, FCC 21-58 (2021) (Report and Order). The Report and Order established the Emergency Connectivity Fund Program (ECF Program), which is funded through the ECF. The ECF Program rules became effective upon publication in the Federal Register on May 28, 2021. ECF Program support will first be made available to eligible schools and libraries applying for funds for the purchases of eligible equipment, including Wi-Fi hotspots, modems, routers, and connected devices, as well as advanced telecommunications and information services, to meet the remote learning needs of students, school staff, and library patrons who would otherwise lack access to connected devices and broadband connections sufficient to engage in remote learning during the upcoming school year.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Payments for Specified Use

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

ECF Program support reimburses 100 percent of the reasonable costs associated with the purchase of eligible equipment, advanced telecommunications and information services, or eligible equipment and advanced telecommunications and information services, subject to certain program caps on services and devices. For connected devices, the reasonable, maximum support amount will be $400 per device. The FCC adopted $250 as the reasonable, maximum reasonable support amount for a Wi-Fi hotspot provided by a school or library to a student, school staff member, or library patron, based on advertised costs for Wi-Fi hotspots. Program applicants may only seek support and claim reimbursement for support according to the ECF Program rules and requirements set forth in the Commissions ECF Program Order (FCC 21-58).

Applicant Eligibility:

Other public institution/organization; Other private institutions/organizations; All schools, libraries, and consortia of schools and libraries that are eligible for support under the schools and libraries universal service support mechanism (also known as the E-Rate Program) are eligible to request and receive support through the ECF Program. The Program uses the same definitions of elementary school, secondary school, library, and library consortium used in the E-Rate rules. Consistent with the Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA), Tribal libraries which are by statute eligible for support from state library administrative agencies under the LSTA, are eligible for support from the Fund.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Beneficiary eligibility is the same as applicant eligibility.

Credentials/Documentation:

For the information collections required under the ECF Program, the FCC requested and has received emergency authorization from the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for a new information collection entitled Establishing the Emergency Connectivity Fund Program (OMB Control No. 3060-1286) on May 20, 2021. The following forms are required: ECF Form 471 (program application form); Emergency Connectivity Fund - Description of Services Requested and Certification, ECF Forms 472 or 473 (applicant and service provider reimbursement request forms); Emergency Connectivity Fund Program Request for Reimbursement; and Emergency Connectivity Fund Post-Commitment Change Request. Program applicants must file an application form (ECF FCC Form 471) to provide information for program reviewers to determine whether the applicants funding request meets program requirements and is eligible to receive a funding commitment. Requests must be made by eligible entities, for eligible services and equipment, to be used at eligible locations, and for eligible purposes according to ECF Program rules and the requirements of the ECF Program order (FCC 21-58). Eligibility to receive funding commitments from the ECF Program is based on an applicants submission of required information and certifications. To implement the program prohibition on requesting or receiving duplicative funding, applicants will be required to provide certifications on ECF Program forms that they are not seeking support or reimbursement for eligible equipment or services that have been purchased and reimbursed with other federal funding (e.g., CARES Act, Emergency Broadband Benefit Program; targeted state funding; other external sources of targeted funding; or eligible for discounts through the E-Rate or other Universal Service Fund (USF) programs). Because the ECF Program is targeting unmet needs, schools and libraries must provide certifications on their funding applications that they are seeking support for eligible equipment and services to be provided to students, school staff, and library patrons who would otherwise lack access to connected devices and/or broadband services sufficient to engage in remote learning. Libraries must also receive from patrons a signed statement that the patron would otherwise lack access to equipment or services sufficient to meet the patrons educational needs if not for the use of the equipment or services provided by the library. Other required program certifications target the issues of Childrens Internet Protection Act (CIPA) compliance, compliance with state, local and Tribal procurement requirements, service provider payment verifications, eligibility of equipment and services and that they have been received/delivered prior to invoicing, and the maintenance of asset inventories (applicants are required to maintain asset and service inventories).

An applicants filing and subsequent funding commitment(s) does not guarantee that the applicant will receive an ECF Program reimbursement. Applicants and service providers who agree to invoice on behalf of applicants must file all required invoicing forms (ECF Forms 472 or 474), supporting documentation, and certifications to receive reimbursement. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Pre-application coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. To clarify the statement above, only Subpart A- Acronyms and Definitions, Subpart B- General Provisions, Subparts C-D (specifically 2 CFR 200.203 - Requirement to provide public notice of Federal financial assistance programs; 2 CFR 200.303 Internal controls; and 2 CFR 200.331-333 Subrecipient Monitoring and Management); and Subpart F - Audit Requirements apply to this program. During the initial application filing window, eligible schools, libraries, and consortia of eligible schools and libraries, can submit requests for funding to purchase eligible equipment and services that are delivered or received between July 1, 2021 and June 30, 2022. There is not a separate FCC-mandated competitive bidding process required for applicants prior to submitting applications for funding. However, in their applications, applicants must certify that they have complied with all applicable local, state, and Tribal procurement requirements with respect to both previous purchases and future purchases and contracts. This requires schools and libraries that are not subject to public procurement rules to follow their own procurement process and rules, such as those that may be included in a written charter. When ready to apply, each applicant must file all required forms, information, and certifications in the ECF Program Portal. The Act provides that USAC, the administrator of all of the FCCs Universal Service Fund (USF) programs, is to administer the regulations adopted pursuant to section 7402, under the oversight of the Commission.

Award Procedure:

After their applications undergo an ECF Program review, applicants will receive funding commitment decision letters providing the amount of their funding commitments or denying their applications. Approved funding decisions authorize 100 percent reimbursement of the reasonable costs of eligible services and equipment up to caps on certain equipment or services named in the FCCs Report and Order. Specifically, the FCC adopted per-device caps based on a reasonable support amount, up to which an applicant may receive support. For connected devices, the reasonable, maximum support amount will be $400 per device. The FCC adopted $250 as the reasonable, maximum reasonable support amount for a Wi-Fi hotspot provided to a student, school staff member, or library patron, based on advertised costs for Wi-Fi hotspots. If demand exceeds available funds during any ECF Program application filing window, the FCC will prioritize requests based on applicants E-Rate Program discount matrix for category one services, adjusted to provide a five percent boost for rural schools and libraries. The E-Rate Program discount matrix governs the amount of funding eligible schools, libraries, and consortia are eligible to receive based on the percent of students in the school district eligible for the National Free and Reduced School Lunch Program and whether the entity is located in a rural or urban area. Those schools and libraries entitled to a higher discount will be prioritized and receive funding ahead of those entitled to a lower discount rate in the event there is insufficient funding to meet demand.

Deadlines:

The initial application filing window opened on June 29, 2021 and closed on August 13, 2021 (a 45-day period). Applicants were notified of the application filing window open and close dates by a Commission News Release issued on June 15, 2021. All applications filed within an application filing window are considered as filed at the same time.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Other. The FCC has not set a specific date range for funding decisions but has set ECF Program targets to encourage efficient distribution of funding. It set targets for USAC to issue funding decision commitment letters for 50% of the workable applications within 60 days of the close of the first application window and 70% of the workable applications within 100 days of the close of the first application filing window. We use the term workable to mean that a funding request is filed timely and is complete, with all necessary information, to enable a reviewer to make the appropriate funding decision, and the applicant, provider, and any consultants are not subject to investigation, audit, or other similar reason for delay in a funding decision. This is consistent with the way the term is currently used in the E-Rate Program. For purposes of the Emergency Connectivity Fund, section 7402 of the American Rescue Plan defines the COVID-19 emergency period as beginning on the date the Secretary of Health and Human Services determined that a public health emergency exists as a result of COVID-19 pursuant to section 319 of the Public Health Service Act, and ending on the June 30 that first occurs after the date that is one year after the Secretary of Health and Human Services determines that a public health emergency no longer exists. The funds for the ECF Program are appropriated in the United States Treasury and will remain available until funds are exhausted or until September 30, 2030.

Appeals:

Other. An appeal of an ECF Program decision or waiver of the ECF Program rules must be filed within 30 days of the date of an action or decision by USAC.

Renewals:

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formula is not applicable to this assistance listing. Matching requirements are not applicable to this assistance listing. MOE requirements are not applicable to this assistance listing.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The Emergency Connectivity Fund was established by Congress in the United States Treasury through an appropriation of $7.171 billion, to remain available until September 30, 2030. Support from the ECF Program is available until the program funds are exhausted or until September 30, 2030. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: other

Reports:

USAC will report program data on ECF funding applications and commitments on its Open Data platform. Using the ECF Program Portal and application process, USAC will collect information about the number of connected devices and broadband connections that are requested to connect students, school staff, and library patrons through the Emergency Connectivity Fund Program. The FCC has directed USAC to release this data publicly as part of its Open Data project for the Emergency Connectivity Fund Program. As part of the application process, the program will collect schools and school districts best estimates about the number of students in their school or school district who did not have access to adequate connected devices, broadband connections, or both when the pandemic began; the number of students who do not currently have access to adequate connected devices, broadband Internet access connections, or both; and how they expect those numbers to change with receipt of requested Emergency Connectivity Fund Program support. Schools and school districts that participate will be asked to describe how and when they collected the information that they use for the estimates provided in their responses. The FCC has directed USAC to also release this data as part of its Open Data project for the Emergency Connectivity Fund Program. USAC was also directed to make the pricing data from the Emergency Connectivity Fund Program publicly available through its Open Data platform within 160 days after the first Emergency Connectivity Fund Program application filing window closes.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503 To clarify the statement above, per 2 CFR 200.1, a Non-Federal entity means a State, local government, Indian tribe, Institution of Higher Education, or nonprofit organization that carries out a Federal award as a recipient or subrecipient. Additionally, the FCC is evaluating its audit plan for the ECF Program.

Records:

All Emergency Connectivity Fund participants shall retain records related to their participation in the program sufficient to demonstrate compliance with all program rules for at least ten (10) years from the last date of service or delivery of equipment, including asset and service inventory records that are required by the

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

2021 The ECF Program will provide funding to schools and libraries for the reasonable costs of laptop and tablet computers; Wi-Fi hotspots; routers; modems; and broadband Internet connections for use by students, school staff, and library patrons at locations that include locations other than a school or library. Funding is limited to students, school staff, and library patrons who would otherwise lack access to connected devices and/or broadband Internet services sufficient to engage in remote learning during the COVID-19 emergency period. During the first application filing window, which opened on June 29, 2021, eligible schools and libraries are able to apply for funding for Emergency Connectivity Fund eligible equipment and/or services purchased between July 1, 2021 and June 30, 2022 to meet the remote learning needs of students, school staff, and library patrons who would otherwise lack access to connected devices and/or broadband connections sufficient to engage in remote learning during the upcoming 2021-2022 school year. The initial application filing window closed on August 13, 2021. If available funds remain after the first round of program funding, an additional application filing window or windows may be opened to address remaining unmet connectivity needs or to reimburse schools and libraries for purchases of eligible equipment and services to address unmet student, school staff, and library patron connectivity needs made during the initial 16 months of the COVID-19 pandemic (i.e., March 1, 2020 through June 30, 2021). However, in the event that demand for prospective support in the first application filing window appears to be far short of meeting current needs, the Commission may consider a second prospective window before opening an application filing window to fund previously purchased eligible equipment and services.

32.010 Supply Chain Reimbursement Program

Supply Chain Reimbursement Program,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

AUTHORIZATION:

Public Law 116-260 and 124

OBJECTIVES:

On March 12, 2020, the Secure and Trusted Communications Networks Act of 2019 (Secure Networks Act), Pub. L. No. 116-124, was signed into law. Section 4 of the Secure Networks Act, 47 U.S.C. 1603, directed the Federal Communications Commission (Commission) to establish the Secure and Trusted Communications Networks Reimbursement Program (Reimbursement Program) to reimburse providers of advanced communications services with two million or fewer customers for the removal, replacement, and disposal of covered communications equipment and services from their networks. On December 11, 2020, the Commission released a rulemaking order establishing the Reimbursement Program. The Commission tasked the Wireline Competition Bureau with implementing the Reimbursement Program. See Protecting Against National Security Threats to the Communications Supply Chain Through FCC Programs, WC Docket No. 18-89, Second Report and Order, 35 FCC Rcd 14284 (2020) (Second Report and Order). On December 27, 2020, the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021 (CAA), Pub. L. 116-260, became law, appropriating $1.9 billion for the Commission to carry out the Reimbursement Program and amending the Reimbursement Program to, among other things, increase eligibility to those providers of advanced communications services with ten million or fewer customers. The Commission adopted a rulemaking order on July 13, 2021, to implement the amendments contained in the CAA, FCC 21-86. Consistent with the CAA, the Commission expanded Reimbursement Program eligibility to providers with ten million or fewer customers and limited the use of Reimbursement Program funds to the removal, replacement, and disposal of covered communications equipment or services produced or provided by Huawei Technologies Company (Huawei) or ZTE Corporation (ZTE), including their subsidiaries and affiliates, that was obtained on or before June 30, 2020. See Protecting Against National Security Threats to the Communications Supply Chain Through FCC Programs, WC Docket No. 18-89, Third Report and Order, FCC 21-86 (rel. July 14, 2021) (Third Report and Order).

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Payments for Specified Use

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Secure Networks Act limits funding use for the permanent removal, replacement, and disposal of communications equipment and services on the Covered List, <https://www.fcc.gov/supplychain/coveredlist>, that are also defined in the 2019 Supply Chain Order, 34 FCC Rcd 11423 (2019), or that are produced or provided by covered companies designated under section 54.9 of the Commissions rules, 47 CFR 54.9, as posing a national security threat to the integrity of communications networks or the communications supply chain. Specifically, the equipment and services eligible for reimbursement from the Covered List are at this time limited to all such communications equipment and services by Huawei and ZTE as covered companies. Separately, the Secure Networks Act prohibits recipients from using funds to purchase, rent, lease, or otherwise obtain any covered communications equipment or service. 47 U.S.C. 1603(c)(2).

Applicant Eligibility:

Non-Government - General; Small business (less than 500 employees); Profit organization; Other public institution/organization; Other private institutions/organizations; Providers of advanced communications service with ten million or fewer customers are eligible to participate in the Reimbursement Program to reimburse such providers for costs reasonably incurred for the replacement, removal, and disposal of Huawei and ZTE communications equipment and service obtained on or before June 30, 2020. The Commission has interpreted the term provider of advanced communications service to mean facilities-based providers, whether fixed or mobile, with a broadband connection to end users with at least 200 kbps in one direction. Second Report and Order, 35

FCC Rcd at 14332, para. 111. The Commission has interpreted the statutory language customers of such provider and customers of any affiliate to mean those customers taking advanced communications service from the provider and its affiliates. Id. at 14333, paras. 113-115. A provider seeking to participate in the Reimbursement Program must have ten million or fewer customers, as of the date its application is filed. To be eligible, the Secure Networks Act and the Commissions rules require participating providers to certify: (i) as of the date of the submission of the application, that the provider has developed: a plan for the permanent removal and replacement of any covered communications equipment or service that is in the communications network of the provider as of such date; and the disposal of the equipment or services removed; and a specific timeline for the permanent removal, replacement, and disposal of the covered communications equipment or service, which timeline shall be submitted to the Commission as part of the application; and beginning on the date of the approval of the application, the provider: will not purchase, rent, lease, or otherwise obtain covered communications equipment or service, using reimbursement funds or any other funds (including funds derived from private sources); and in developing and tailoring the risk management practices of the applicant, will consult and consider the standards, guidelines, and best practices set forth in the cybersecurity framework developed by the National Institute of Standards and Technology. Separately, for purposes of the Reimbursement Program, a school, library, or health care provider, or consortium thereof, may also qualify as a provider of advanced communications service, and therefore be eligible to participate in the Reimbursement Program, if it provides facilities-based broadband connections of at least 200 kbps in one direction to end users, which could include students, patrons, patients, or member institutions in the context of cooperative infrastructure sharing arrangements.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Beneficiary eligibility is the same as applicant eligibility.

Credentials/Documentation:

Providers seeking assistance from the Reimbursement Program are required to file a FCC Form 5640 Application Request for Funding Allocation to provide information to determine whether the applicant is eligible to participate in the Reimbursement Program. Each applicant must file the required form, cost estimate and other identifying information, and certifications with the Commission to receive a funding allocation. Applicants for reimbursement funds must certify, among other things, compliance with a prohibition from purchasing, renting, leasing, or otherwise obtaining covered equipment or services with reimbursement funds or any other funding, including private funds, beginning on the date of approval of its application for reimbursement funding allocation. Once an allocation is issued by the Commission, a Reimbursement Program participant can then file a Reimbursement Claim Request to obtain draw-down disbursements from the funding allocation for reasonable expenses actually incurred. Reimbursement Program participants are required to complete the removal, replacement, and disposal process within one year of the initial disbursement of funds unless the Commission grants an extension of time. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Pre-application coordination is not applicable. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. To clarify the statement above, only Subpart A- Acronyms and Definitions, Subpart B- General Provisions, Subparts C-D (specifically 2 CFR 200.203 - Requirement to provide public notice of Federal financial assistance programs; 2 CFR 200.303 Internal controls; and 2 CFR 200.331-333 Subrecipient Monitoring and Management); and Subpart F - Audit Requirements apply to this program. During a filing window, eligible providers may request a funding allocation from the Reimbursement Program for the reimbursement of costs reasonably incurred for the permanent removal, replacement, and disposal of covered communications equipment or service. Application Requests for Funding Allocations must include: (i) An estimate of costs reasonably incurred for the permanent removal, replacement, and disposal of covered communications equipment or service from the eligible providers network. Eligible providers may rely upon the predetermined estimated costs identified in the Catalog of Expenses Eligible for Reimbursement made available by the Wireline Competition Bureau. Eligible providers that submit their own cost estimates must submit supporting documentation and certify that the estimate is made in good faith; (ii) Detailed information on the covered communications equipment or service being removed, replaced and disposed of; (iii) Various certifications identified in the Program rules; (iv) A specific timeline for the permanent removal, replacement, and disposal of the covered communications equipment or services; and (v) The eligible provider certifies in good faith that it will reasonably incur the estimated costs claimed as eligible for reimbursement; it will use all money received from the Reimbursement Program only for expenses eligible for reimbursement; it will comply with all policies and procedures relating to allocations, draw downs, payments, obligations, and expenditures of money from the Reimbursement Program; it will maintain detailed records, including receipts, of all costs eligible for reimbursement actually incurred for a period of 10 years; and it will file all required documentation for its expenses.

Award Procedure:

The Wireline Competition Bureau has contracted with Ernst & Young, LLP to act as the Fund Administrator for the Reimbursement Program. The Fund Administrator will review applications to determine whether the application is complete, whether the applicant is eligible for the Reimbursement Program, and to assess the reasonableness of the cost estimates provided by the applicant and make recommendations to the Wireline Competition Bureau on whether to grant or deny the application. The Wireline Competition Bureau shall approve or deny applications to receive a funding allocation from the Reimbursement Program within 90 days after the close of the applicable filing window. The Wireline Competition Bureau may extend the deadline for granting or denying applications for up to an additional 45 days if it determines that an excessive number of applications have been filed during the window and additional time is needed to review the applications.

Deadlines:

Applicants must submit requests for funding by the close of the filing window(s) announced by the Wireline Competition Bureau. Per section 1.50004(b) of the Commission's rules, the FCC's Wireline Competition Bureau will announce the opening of an initial filing window in a subsequent public notice when the online filing portal is ready to begin accepting applications. In that public notice, the Wireline Competition Bureau will also announce the duration of the initial filing window.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Other. The Reimbursement Program is a limited duration program with limited funds. The Wireline Competition Bureau shall issue funding allocations after the close of a filing window. After a filing window closes, the Fund Administrator shall calculate the total demand for Reimbursement Program support submitted by all eligible providers during the filing window period. If the total demand received during the filing window exceeds the total funds available, then the Wireline Competition Bureau shall allocate the available funds consistent with the prioritization schedule established by the Secure Networks Act, as amended, and the Commissions rules. Specifically, the Commission will prioritize advanced communication service providers with two million or fewer customers first, then advanced communications service providers that are accredited public or private non-commercial educational institutions providing their own facilities-based educational institutions providing their own facilities-based educational broadband service, as defined in 47 CFR 27.4, or any successor regulation and health care providers and libraries providing advanced communications services second, and any remaining approved applicants determined to be eligible for reimbursement under the Program third. If there is insufficient funding to fully fund all requests in a particular prioritization category, then the Wireline Competition Bureau will prorate the available funding among all eligible providers in that prioritization category. Requests for funds in subsequent prioritization categories will be denied for lack of available funding.

Appeals:

Other. Any interested person may petition for reconsideration of a final FCC action taken pursuant to delegated authority. 47 CFR 1.106. The petition for reconsideration and any supplement thereto shall be filed within 30 days from the date of public notice of the final FCC action, as that date is defined in 47 CFR 1.4(b), 1.102. Any person aggrieved by any FCC action taken pursuant to delegated authority may file an application requesting review of that action. 47 CFR 1.115.

An application for review and any supplemental thereto shall be filed within 30 days of public notice of such action, as that date is defined in 47 CFR 1.4(b).

Statutory formula is not applicable to this assistance listing. Matching requirements are not applicable to this assistance listing. MOE requirements are not applicable to this assistance listing.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

The Reimbursement Program will have an initial application filing window for the filing of Application Request for Funding Allocation and will establish subsequent filing windows as necessary should support remain, or additional support become available to fund additional requests. Per the Secure Networks Act and the Commissions rules, the Bureau must act on applications within 90 days of submission. If there is an excessive number of applications, the Wireline Competition Bureau can extend this deadline by no more than 45 days. Support from the Reimbursement Program is available until the program funds are exhausted. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: other

Reports:

Recipients are required to submit spending reports indicating how reimbursement funds have been spent, including detailed accounting of the covered communications equipment or services permanently removed and disposed of, and the replacement equipment or services purchased, rented, leased, or otherwise obtained, using reimbursement funds. These spending reports must be filed semiannually within 10 calendar days after the end of January and July, starting with the recipients initial draw down of disbursement funds and terminating once the recipient has filed a final spending report showing the expenditure of all funds received as compared to the estimated costs submitted. A final spending report will be due following the filing of a final certification by the recipient. Recipients are required to submit status updates once every 90 days beginning on the date on which the Bureau approved an application for a reimbursement and until the recipient has filed the final certification. Recipients must file the first report within 90 days of receiving their funding allocation. The updates must include information on: (1) efforts undertaken, and challenges encountered, in permanently removing, replacing, and disposing of the covered communications equipment or service; (2) availability of replacement equipment in the marketplace; (3) whether the recipient has fully complied with (or is in the process of complying with) all requirements of the Reimbursement Program; (4) whether the recipient has permanently removed from its communications network, replaced, and disposed of (or is in the process of permanently removing, replacing, and disposing of) all covered communications equipment or services that were in the recipients network as of the date of the submission of the recipients application; and (5) whether the recipient has fully complied with (or is in the process of complying with) the timeline submitted by the recipient.

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. To clarify the statement above, per 2 CFR 200.1, a Non-Federal entity means a State, local government, Indian tribe, Institution of Higher Education, or nonprofit organization that carries out a Federal award as a recipient or subrecipient. Additionally, the FCC is evaluating its audit plan for the Supply Chain Reimbursement Program.

Records:

Each Reimbursement Program recipient is required to retain all relevant documents, including invoices and receipts, pertaining to all costs eligible for reimbursement actually incurred for the removal, replacement, and disposal of covered communications equipment or services for a period ending not less than 10 years after the date on which it receives final disbursement from the

NATIONAL AERONAUTICS AND SPACE ADMINISTRATION

AUTHORIZATION:

National Aeronautics and Space Act of 1958,

OBJECTIVES:

The NASA Science Mission Directorate (SMD) pursues NASA's strategic objectives using a variety of aircraft, balloon, and spaceflight programs that enable the execution of both remote-sensing and in-situ investigations. Investigations can include the flight of space missions in Earth orbit, as well as to or even beyond objects in the Solar System, and through ground-based research activities that directly support these space missions. SMD also supports basic and applied research and technology investigations in order to understand naturally occurring space and Earth phenomena, human-induced changes in the Earth system, and to develop Earth and space science-related technologies. In July 2020, 1) the Physical Sciences and 2) Space Biology research programs moved to SMD from another NASA organization, i.e., appropriation. Fundamental and applied physical sciences research supports the objective of enabling exploration and pioneering scientific discovery. NASA's experiments in the various disciplines of physical science reveal how physical systems respond to the space environment and the near absence of gravity. The main objective of Space Biology research is to build a better understanding of how spaceflight affects living systems in spacecraft such as the International Space Station (ISS), or in ground-based experiments, and to prepare for future human exploration missions far from Earth. SMD's research grants and cooperative agreements support national goals for robotic and human exploration of space and ground-based investigations that contribute to SMD's science, technology and exploration goals.

ROSES also may first release a program element in draft for community comment prior to opening proposal submission. Rarely, circumstances may require that proposals be submitted in as few as

30 days after the release of a specific ROSES program element. Some ROSES elements accept proposals year round without a fixed deadline date. SMD calls elements within ROSES without deadlines "No Due Date (NoDD) programs" as explained at <https://science.nasa.gov/researchers/nodd>.

On an occasional basis SMD also may use stand-alone cooperative agreement notices (CAN) for NASA institutes and other complex activities. SMD releases stand-alone CANs, NRAs, or other NOFOs as needed. These are typically open for 90 days.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

From 120 to 180 days.

Appeals:

From 60 to 90 days. From 90 to 120 days. SMD has a process for requesting a debrief and/or reconsideration of the declination of a proposal submitted in response to an SMD NASA Research Announcement and Cooperative Agreement Notices. Reconsideration may be requested if the PI believes that the proposal was not handled correctly. This process may be found at in the SMD Reconsideration Policy document available in the Library section of the SARA (Acronym stands for Senior Advisor for Research and Analysis) website at <https://sara.nasa.gov> or <https://science.nasa.gov/researchers>

Renewals:

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formula is not applicable to this assistance listing. Matching requirements are not applicable to this assistance listing. MOE requirements are not applicable to this assistance listing.

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

Notwithstanding no cost extensions that may exceed the general maximum award duration of five years, funding is available as long as the appropriation has not expired. A three-year spending period is most typical. NASA may require final spending occur at least 60 days prior to the appropriations expiration. Once obligated on the award and depending on the appropriations expiration, funding may be available for almost seven years. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: letter

Reports:

Program Reports: Annual Progress Reports (Summary of Annual Progress/Metrics); Quarterly Progress Reports (Summary of Quarterly Progress/Metrics), Summary of Research/Educational Outreach Reports, and FFATA (FSRS) Reports. NASA has a New Technology Reporting requirement. See NASA Grants and Cooperative Agreement for interim and final reporting requirements. Some funding opportunities may have additional reporting requirements. SF-425 SMD uses the basic federal Research Performance Progress Report format unless the NOFO specifies another format. SF-425 SMD is required to monitor recipient performance for an incremental period in a manner that permits evaluation and review of the effort performed. For example, measurement criteria may include: (1) Meeting specified milestones between beginning and ending dates, and/or (2) Successful completion of significant activities or objectives identified, and/or (3) On time delivery of progress reports and other required documentation

Audits:

In accordance with the provisions of 2 CFR 200, Subpart F - Audit Requirements, nonfederal entities that expend financial assistance of $750,000 or more in Federal awards will have a single or a program-specific audit conducted for that year. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503

2021 Award selection abstracts are published on the internet for each NASA Research Announcement (NRA) or Cooperative Agreement Notice (CAN). For example, the NRA entitled: Research Opportunities in Space and Earth Sciences (ROSES) has award abstracts available starting from January 1, 2005 to the present. Find the ROSES abstracts by Fiscal Year at <http://nspires.nasaprs.com>. Step one: click "Closed/Past." Then when you reach the Solicitations Page choose Science Mission Directorate to begin a search. Beneath the "Solicitation #" column is a hyperlink for each Notice of Funding opportunity. When you reach a solicitations specialized page, you will be able to download the abstracts in a PDF file under the heading "Selections". Information from 2004 to the present about the Biology and Physical Sciences awards are located within the Task Book database established by the Space Life and Physical Sciences Research and Applications Division once supported by Human Exploration and Operations Mission Directorate (HEO) at <https://taskbook.nasaprs.com/tbp/welcome.cfm>. Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Process for Grants:(1) Credit unions fulfill all application responses and requirements for the grant and submit the request online. (2) NCUA will thoroughly review the application according to the selection process in the grant guideline. (3) NCUA will make a final decision and notify the credit union whether the request is approved or denied via email. (4) If the request is approved, then the credit union may initiate the project that was applied for. (5) After the project is completed and the credit union fulfills all of the grant requirements then they may submit a reimbursement request to the NCUA. Process for Loans:(1) Credit unions fulfill all application responses and requirements for the loan and submit the request online. (2) NCUA will thoroughly review the application according to the criteria established in NCUA Rules and Regulations 12 CFR 705.7(c). (3) NCUA will make a decision and notify the credit union whether the request is tentatively approved or denied via email. (4) If the request is tentatively approved, NCUA will provide credit unions with instructions to complete the necessary loan documentation. (5) Credit unions review, sign, and submit the required loan documentation including, but not limited to, a loan agreement, promissory note, and amortization schedule. (6) NCUA will review and sign the loan documentation, then notify the credit union of the final approval via email. (7) NCUA will provide the credit union with copies of the signed loan documentation. (8) NCUA deposits the funds into the credit unions account on the effective date of the loan.

Award Procedure:

The award procedure generally involves two or three steps of review by different staff. The final approval authority is completed by the Director (or designee) of the NCUA's Office of Credit Union Resources and Expansion. Three Step Review Process: The Initial Reviewer (IR) evaluates the request and determines if it satisfies the criteria for approval set forth in program guidelines. Then the Grant Administrator (GA) reviews the IRs recommendation to either confirm the recommendation or make another recommendation. Lastly, the Office Director or Deputy Director (OD) reviews the GAs recommendation to either confirm or deny the GAs recommendation, which results in a official final decision. Two Step Review Process: This process follows the same protocols as the Three Step Review Process. However, the GA initiates the evaluation of the request and determines if it satisfies the criteria for approval set forth in program guidelines. Then, the OD reviews the GAs recommendation to either confirm or deny the GAs recommendation, which results in a official final decision. The difference in this step is that the GA bypasses the IRs step during this process and is used for faster response on more simplified applications.

Deadlines:

May 03, 2021 - June 26, 2021. The NCUA will accept applications beginning May 3, 2021, at 9:00 a.m. eastern time (ET). Applications must be submitted by June 26, 2021, at 11:59 p.m. ET. The NCUA accepts loan applications on a continuous basis subject to funding availability.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

In addition, the NCUA will announce the successful applications through a press release that includes a list of the Awardees. Appeals:

From 15 to 30 days. Appeals of non-qualification: A Qualifying Credit Union whose application for a loan or technical assistance grant has been denied under 705.7(f) for failure to satisfy any of the conditions set forth in 705.7(c), including any additional criteria set forth in the related notice of funding opportunity, may request the Director of the Office of Credit Union Resources and Expansion to reconsider the denial and/or appeal that decision to the NCUA Board in accordance with the procedures set forth in subpart B to part 746 of this chapter, subject to the following limitations: (1) Scope: The scope of the Board's review is limited to the threshold question of qualification and not the issue of whether, among qualified applicants, a particular loan or technical assistance grant is funded. (2) Appeals procedures inapplicable: The foregoing procedure applies during an open period in which funds are available and NCUA has called for applications. NCUA will reject any application submitted during a period in which NCUA has not called for applications, except for applications submitted under 705.8. Such rejections are not subject to appeal or review by the NCUA Board. 2020 | Technical Assistance Grants | COVID-19 Emergency Support: The COVID-19 Emergency Support initiative is intended to help credit unions assist members experiencing economic hardships due to the coronavirus, particularly members that are most impacted by the situation. Funds may be used to address the financial needs of impacted members, to help credit unions respond to the unexpected and unforeseen challenges of COVID-19, and to alleviate the impact of the crisis on the credit union and its community. Due to the severity of the situation, the NCUA may relax some of the administrative and programmatic requirements for Applicants under this initiative. It is crucial for credit unions to expand financial products and services for members through digital channels. Ensuring that the appropriate processes are in place to continually safeguard the credit unions digital assets and activities is equally important. This grant may be used for eligible expenses associated with facilitating a new mentorship relationship. Funding approval will be based on the applicants ability to demonstrate a well-developed plan for the mentoring assistance it would receive from a mentor credit union. Applicants are expected to meet the objectives of this initiative by establishing a mentorship to accomplish the following objectives: a. Credit union growth and expansion, such as growing the membership or the loan portfolio; b. Improved management and operations, such as leadership training, developing new policy and procedure documents, or responding to exam or audit findings; c. 2021 State humanities councils offer a wide array of programming that makes the humanities accessible to general audiences. State council-conducted programs and grant making reflect the interests, resources, and diverse experiences of the local communities they serve. Council programs include competitive grants, civic education programs, book festivals, speakers bureaus, educator institutes, Clemente courses, films, traveling exhibitions, Chautauqua events, and programs for veterans. They also help extend the reach of NEH-funded projects, and ensure NEH remains connected to local and regional communities. Through council initiatives and grant-making, state councils enrich lives through the humanities with an emphasis on the specific needs of the communities they represent.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Each council sets its own guidelines and criteria for assessing proposals, which are widely disseminated within the state. The criteria for state council funding from NEH are established in the National Foundation on the Arts and the Humanities Act of 1965, as amended, 20 U.S.C. Section 950, 956, and by the NEH Office of Federal/State Partnership.

Preapplication Coordination:

Pre-application coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. To receive funds under the Grants to State Library Administrative Agencies program, each State Library Administrative Agency must submit to the Director of IMLS a State Plan detailing certain goals, assurances, and procedures for a five-year period. A State Plan is a document that identifies a States library needs, sets forth the activities to be taken toward meeting the identified needs supported with the assistance of Federal funds made available under the Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA), and provides assurances that the officially designated State Library Administrative Agency has the fiscal and legal authority and capability to administer all aspects of any award under the Grants to State Library Administrative Agencies program. The State Plan must also provide assurances for establishing the States policies, priorities, criteria and procedures necessary to the implementation of all programs under the LSTA. The State Plan should be organized in the order of the requirements listed in the guidelines, available at imls.gov, and submitted as a PDF document to stateprograms@imls.gov.

Award Procedure:

IMLS approves State Plans that meet the requirements as set out in the guidelines available at imls.gov and provide satisfactory assurances and certifications that the provisions of the State Plan will be carried out. Once IMLS approves a State Plan, IMLS sends a letter to the applicant stating that the State Plan has been approved. States may then distribute the funds through competitive subawards or cooperative agreements with eligible entities.

Deadlines:

March 22, 2022 - June 30, 2022. Each State Library Administrative Agency may submit a Five-Year Plan at the beginning of a five-year cycle. The current cycle is 2018-2022, and the next is 2023-2027. Plans for that cycle will be due June 30, 2022.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

From 90 to 120 days. Once IMLS approves the Five-Year Plan, a State can receive annual allotments for the five-year period covered by the Plan. Awards are made annually with a two-year period of performance. At any given time, a State will have two partially overlapping active grants, but each must be tracked and reported separately.

Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Title 20 USC Museum and Library Services Act of 2018, Chapter 72, Part 9131(b) (for matching) 9133(c)(1)(A)(i) and 9133(c) (2) for MOE, Subpart ,Public Law 115-410. Matching Requirements: Percent: 0%. Requirement: Matching requirements are mandatory. Statutory Formula: Matching Requirements: The amount a State receives under this program consists of a minimum allotment set by Congress (20 USC 9131 (b)) plus an additional amount based on the most current published population estimates available the first day of the federal fiscal year from the Bureau of the Census. The federal share is 66 percent and the state matching requirement is 34 percent. This program has MOE requirements, see funding agency for further details. Additional Information: IMLS's authorizing legislation requires a State maintenance of effort (MOE). Under a maintenance of effort provision, a State is required, as a condition of eligibility for Federal funding, to maintain its financial contribution to a program at not less than the amount of its contribution for some prior time period. A maintenance of effort formula ensures that Federal assistance results in an increased level of library-related activity and that a State does not simply replace State dollars with Federal dollars over time. IMLS's legislation provides that the amount otherwise payable to a State for a fiscal year pursuant to an allotment shall be reduced if the level of State expenditures for the previous fiscal year is less than the average of the total of such expenditures for the three fiscal years preceding that previous fiscal year..

Length and Time Phasing of Assistance:

At the beginning of a five-year cycle, all State Library Administrative Agencies submit a Five-Year Plan that outlines state goals aligning with the Grants to States priorities of the Library Services and Technology Act. Once IMLS approves the Five-Year Plan, states can receive annual allotments for the five-year period covered by the Plan, currently 2018-2022. Method of awarding/releasing assistance: other

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program for acknowledgement and, if they meet NSF requirements, for review. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF either as ad hoc reviewers, panelists, or both, who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. These reviewers are selected by Program Officers charged with oversight of the review process. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officer's discretion. Submission of such names, however, is optional. Care is taken to ensure that reviewers have no conflicts of interest with the proposal. In addition, Program Officers may obtain comments from site visits before recommending final action on proposals. Senior NSF staff further review recommendations for awards. A flowchart that depicts the entire NSF proposal and award process (and associated timeline) is included in PAPPG Exhibit III-1. A comprehensive description of the Foundation's merit review process is available on the NSF website at: https://www.nsf.gov/bfa/dias/policy/merit_review/. Proposers should also be aware of core strategies that are essential to the fulfillment of NSF's mission, as articulated in Building the Future: Investing in Discovery and Innovation - NSF Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2018-2022. These strategies are integrated in the program planning and implementation process, of which proposal review is one part. NSF's mission is particularly well-implemented through the integration of research and education and broadening participation in NSF programs, projects, and activities. One of the strategic objectives in support of NSF's mission is to foster integration of research and education through the programs, projects, and activities it supports at academic and research institutions. These institutions must recruit, train, and prepare a diverse STEM workforce to advance the frontiers of science and participate in the U.S. technology-based economy. NSF's contribution to the national innovation ecosystem is to provide cutting-edge research under the guidance of the Nation's most creative scientists and engineers. NSF also supports development of a strong science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) workforce by investing in building the knowledge that informs improvements in STEM teaching and learning. NSF's mission calls for the broadening of opportunities and expanding participation of groups, institutions, and geographic regions that are underrepresented in STEM disciplines, which is essential to the health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports. The National Science Foundation strives to invest in a robust and diverse portfolio of projects that creates new knowledge and enables breakthroughs in understanding across all areas of science and engineering research and education. To identify which projects to support, NSF relies on a merit review process that incorporates consideration of both the technical aspects of a proposed project and its potential to contribute more broadly to advancing NSF's mission "to promote the progress of science; to advance the national health, prosperity, and welfare; to secure the national defense; and for other purposes." NSF makes every effort to conduct a fair, competitive, transparent merit review process for the selection of projects.

1. Merit Review Principles These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply: All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge. NSF projects, in the aggregate, should contribute more broadly to achieving societal goals. These "Broader Impacts" may be accomplished through the research itself, through activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. The project activities may be based on previously established and/or innovative methods and approaches, but in either case must be well justified. Meaningful assessment and evaluation of NSF funded projects should be based on appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project. With respect to the third principle, even if assessment of Broader Impacts outcomes for particular projects is done at an aggregated level, PIs are expected to be accountable for carrying out the activities described in the funded project. Thus, individual projects should include clearly stated goals, specific descriptions of the activities that the PI intends to do, and a plan in place to document the outputs of those activities. These three merit review principles provide the basis for the merit review criteria, as well as a context within which the users of the criteria can better understand their intent.

2. Merit Review Criteria All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of the two National Science Board approved merit review criteria. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities. The two merit review criteria are listed below. Both criteria are to be given full consideration during the review and decision-making processes; each criterion is necessary but neither, by itself, is sufficient. Therefore, proposers must fully address both criteria. (PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i), contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal). Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i), prior to the review of a proposal. When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria: Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes. The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria: 1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)? 2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts? 3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success? 4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities? 5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities? Broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through the activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. NSF values the advancement of scientific knowledge and activities that contribute to achievement of societally relevant outcomes. Such outcomes include, but are not limited to: full participation of women, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented minorities in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM); improved STEM education and educator development at any level; increased public scientific literacy and public engagement with science and technology; improved well-being of individuals in society; development of a diverse, globally competitive STEM workforce; increased partnerships between academia, industry, and others; improved national security; increased economic competitiveness of the United States; and enhanced infrastructure for research and education.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program for acknowledgement and, if they meet NSF requirements, for review. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF either as ad hoc reviewers, panelists, or both, who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. These reviewers are selected by Program Officers charged with oversight of the review process. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officer's discretion. Submission of such names, however, is optional. Care is taken to ensure that reviewers have no conflicts of interest with the proposal. In addition, Program Officers may obtain comments from site visits before recommending final action on proposals. Senior NSF staff further review recommendations for awards. A flowchart that depicts the entire NSF proposal and award process (and associated timeline) is included in PAPPG Exhibit III-1. A comprehensive description of the Foundation's merit review process is available on the NSF website at: https://www.nsf.gov/bfa/dias/policy/merit_review/. Proposers should also be aware of core strategies that are essential to the fulfillment of NSF's mission, as articulated in Building the Future: Investing in Discovery and Innovation - NSF Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2018-2022. These strategies are integrated in the program planning and implementation process, of which proposal review is one part. NSF's mission is particularly well-implemented through the integration of research and education and broadening participation in NSF programs, projects, and activities. One of the strategic objectives in support of NSF's mission is to foster integration of research and education through the programs, projects, and activities it supports at academic and research institutions. These institutions must recruit, train, and prepare a diverse STEM workforce to advance the frontiers of science and participate in the U.S. technology-based economy. NSF's contribution to the national innovation ecosystem is to provide cutting-edge research under the guidance of the Nation's most creative scientists and engineers. NSF also supports development of a strong science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) workforce by investing in building the knowledge that informs improvements in STEM teaching and learning. NSF's mission calls for the broadening of opportunities and expanding participation of groups, institutions, and geographic regions that are underrepresented in STEM disciplines, which is essential to the health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports. The National Science Foundation strives to invest in a robust and diverse portfolio of projects that creates new knowledge and enables breakthroughs in understanding across all areas of science and engineering research and education. To identify which projects to support, NSF relies on a merit review process that incorporates consideration of both the technical aspects of a proposed project and its potential to contribute more broadly to advancing NSF's mission "to promote the progress of science; to advance the national health, prosperity, and welfare; to secure the national defense; and for other purposes." NSF makes every effort to conduct a fair, competitive, transparent merit review process for the selection of projects. 1. Merit Review Principles These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply: All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge. NSF projects, in the aggregate, should contribute more broadly to achieving societal goals. These "Broader Impacts" may be accomplished through the research itself, through activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. The project activities may be based on previously established and/or innovative methods and approaches, but in either case must be well justified. Meaningful assessment and evaluation of NSF funded projects should be based on appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project. With respect to the third principle, even if assessment of Broader Impacts outcomes for particular projects is done at an aggregated level, PIs are expected to be accountable for carrying out the activities described in the funded project. Thus, individual projects should include clearly stated goals, specific descriptions of the activities that the PI intends to do, and a plan in place to document the outputs of those activities. These three merit review principles provide the basis for the merit review criteria, as well as a context within which the users of the criteria can better understand their intent. 2. Merit Review Criteria All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of the two National Science Board approved merit review criteria. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities. The two merit review criteria are listed below. Both criteria are to be given full consideration during the review and decision-making processes; each criterion is necessary but neither, by itself, is sufficient. Therefore, proposers must fully address both criteria. (PAPPG Chapter I.I.C.2.d(i). contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal). Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including PAPPG Chapter I.I.C.2.d(i), prior to the review of a proposal. When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria: Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes. The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria: 1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)? 2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts? 3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success? 4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities? 5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities? Broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through the activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. NSF values the advancement of scientific knowledge and activities that contribute to achievement of societally relevant outcomes. Such outcomes include, but are not limited to: full participation of women, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented minorities in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM); improved STEM education and educator development at any level; increased public scientific literacy and public engagement with science and technology; improved well-being of individuals in society; development of a diverse, globally competitive STEM workforce; increased partnerships between academia, industry, and others; improved national security; increased economic competitiveness of the United States; and enhanced infrastructure for research and education.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program for acknowledgement and, if they meet NSF requirements, for review. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF either as ad hoc reviewers, panelists, or both, who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. These reviewers are selected by Program Officers charged with oversight of the review process. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officer's discretion. Submission of such names, however, is optional. Care is taken to ensure that reviewers have no conflicts of interest with the proposal. In addition, Program Officers may obtain comments from site visits before recommending final action on proposals. Senior NSF staff further review recommendations for awards. A flowchart that depicts the entire NSF proposal and award process (and associated timeline) is included in PAPPG Exhibit III-1. A comprehensive description of the Foundation's merit review process is available on the NSF website at: https://www.nsf.gov/bfa/dias/policy/merit_review/. Proposers should also be aware of core strategies that are essential to the fulfillment of NSF's mission, as articulated in Building the Future: Investing in Discovery and Innovation - NSF Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2018-2022. These strategies are integrated in the program planning and implementation process, of which proposal review is one part. NSF's mission is particularly well-implemented through the integration of research and education and broadening participation in NSF programs, projects, and activities. One of the strategic objectives in support of NSF's mission is to foster integration of research and education through the programs, projects, and activities it supports at academic and research institutions. These institutions must recruit, train, and prepare a diverse STEM workforce to advance the frontiers of science and participate in the U.S. technology-based economy. NSF's contribution to the national innovation ecosystem is to provide cutting-edge research under the guidance of the Nation's most creative scientists and engineers. NSF also supports development of a strong science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) workforce by investing in building the knowledge that informs improvements in STEM teaching and learning. NSF's mission calls for the broadening of opportunities and expanding participation of groups, institutions, and geographic regions that are underrepresented in STEM disciplines, which is essential to the health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports. The National Science Foundation strives to invest in a robust and diverse portfolio of projects that creates new knowledge and enables breakthroughs in understanding across all areas of science and engineering research and education. To identify which projects to support, NSF relies on a merit review process that incorporates consideration of both the technical aspects of a proposed project and its potential to contribute more broadly to advancing NSF's mission "to promote the progress of science; to advance the national health, prosperity, and welfare; to secure the national defense; and for other purposes." NSF makes every effort to conduct a fair, competitive, transparent merit review process for the selection of projects. 1. Merit Review Principles These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply: All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge. NSF projects, in the aggregate, should contribute more broadly to achieving societal goals. These "Broader Impacts" may be accomplished through the research itself, through activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. The project activities may be based on previously established and/or innovative methods and approaches, but in either case must be well justified. Meaningful assessment and evaluation of NSF funded projects should be based on appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project. With respect to the third principle, even if assessment of Broader Impacts outcomes for particular projects is done at an aggregated level, PIs are expected to be accountable for carrying out the activities described in the funded project. Thus, individual projects should include clearly stated goals, specific descriptions of the activities that the PI intends to do, and a plan in place to document the outputs of those activities. These three merit review principles provide the basis for the merit review criteria, as well as a context within which the users of the criteria can better understand their intent. 2. Merit Review Criteria All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of the two National Science Board approved merit review criteria. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities. The two merit review criteria are listed below. Both criteria are to be given full consideration during the review and decision-making processes; each criterion is necessary but neither, by itself, is sufficient. Therefore, proposers must fully address both criteria. (PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i). contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal). Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i), prior to the review of a proposal. When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria: Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes. The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria: 1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)? 2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts? 3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success? 4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities? 5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities? Broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through the activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. NSF values the advancement of scientific knowledge and activities that contribute to achievement of societally relevant outcomes. Such outcomes include, but are not limited to: full participation of women, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented minorities in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM); improved STEM education and educator development at any level; increased public scientific literacy and public engagement with science and technology; improved well-being of individuals in society; development of a diverse, globally competitive STEM workforce; increased partnerships between academia, industry, and others; improved national security; increased economic competitiveness of the United States; and enhanced infrastructure for research and education.

(PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i). contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal). Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i), prior to the review of a proposal. When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria: Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes. The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria: 1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)? 2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts? 3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success? 4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities? 5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities? Broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through the activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. NSF values the advancement of scientific knowledge and activities that contribute to achievement of societally relevant outcomes. Such outcomes include, but are not limited to: full participation of women, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented minorities in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM); improved STEM education and educator development at any level; increased public scientific literacy and public engagement with science and technology; improved well-being of individuals in society; development of a diverse, globally competitive STEM workforce; increased partnerships between academia, industry, and others; improved national security; increased economic competitiveness of the United States; and enhanced infrastructure for research and education.

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION

AUTHORIZATION:

National Science Foundation Act of 1950, as amended, 42 U.S.C 1861 et seq.,

OBJECTIVES:

To provide leadership and ensure the vitality of the Nation's science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) education enterprise. The Education and Human Resources (EHR) component of the National Science Foundation sponsors programs that support the development of models and strategies for providing all students with access to high-quality STEM education, and research about those models and strategies. In addition EHR supports scholarships and fellowships for STEM students. The portfolio of EHR programs in STEM education comprises efforts spanning pre-K to 12, undergraduate, graduate and post-doctoral levels, as well as informal education and life-long learning. Long-term goals include: supporting infrastructure and institutional capacity building that will enable development of high-quality educational experiences for all students; ensuring that our educational pathways yield an adequately educated and diverse corps of individuals for the highly technical workplace, the professional STEM community, and society; developing a cadre of professionally educated and well-trained teachers and faculty; and providing the research necessary to inform and improve educational practice. Many EHR programs are conducted in partnership with NSF's other directorates. Programs include research and development support for improving STEM learning and learning environments, including learning technologies, both in formal and informal learning settings; STEM workforce development, including the development of teachers; and broadening participation. EHR programs are subject to continuous improvements based on program reviews, evaluation, dissemination of best practices, and educational research.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program for acknowledgement and, if they meet NSF requirements, for review. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF

Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF either as ad hoc reviewers, panelists, or both, who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. These reviewers are selected by Program Officers charged with oversight of the review process. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officer's discretion. Submission of such names, however, is optional. Care is taken to ensure that reviewers have no conflicts of interest with the proposal. In addition, Program Officers may obtain comments from site visits before recommending final action on proposals. Senior NSF staff further review recommendations for awards. A flowchart that depicts the entire NSF proposal and award process (and associated timeline) is included in PAPPG Exhibit III-1. A comprehensive description of the Foundation's merit review process is available on the NSF website at: https://www.nsf.gov/bfa/dias/policy/merit_review/. Proposers should also be aware of core strategies that are essential to the fulfillment of NSF's mission, as articulated in Building the Future: Investing in Discovery and Innovation - NSF Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2018-2022. These strategies are integrated in the program planning and implementation process, of which proposal review is one part. NSF's mission is particularly well-implemented through the integration of research and education and broadening participation in NSF programs, projects, and activities. One of the strategic objectives in support of NSF's mission is to foster integration of research and education through the programs, projects, and activities it supports at academic and research institutions. These institutions must recruit, train, and prepare a diverse STEM workforce to advance the frontiers of science and participate in the U.S. technology-based economy. NSF's contribution to the national innovation ecosystem is to provide cutting-edge research under the guidance of the Nation's most creative scientists and engineers. NSF also supports development of a strong science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) workforce by investing in building the knowledge that informs improvements in STEM teaching and learning. NSF's mission calls for the broadening of opportunities and expanding participation of groups, institutions, and geographic regions that are underrepresented in STEM disciplines, which is essential to the health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports. The National Science Foundation strives to invest in a robust and diverse portfolio of projects that creates new knowledge and enables breakthroughs in understanding across all areas of science and engineering research and education. To identify which projects to support, NSF relies on a merit review process that incorporates consideration of both the technical aspects of a proposed project and its potential to contribute more broadly to advancing NSF's mission "to promote the progress of science; to advance the national health, prosperity, and welfare; to secure the national defense; and for other purposes."

NSF makes every effort to conduct a fair, competitive, transparent merit review process for the selection of projects. 1. Merit Review Principles These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply: All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge. NSF projects, in the aggregate, should contribute more broadly to achieving societal goals. These "Broader Impacts" may be accomplished through the research itself, through activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. The project activities may be based on previously established and/or innovative methods and approaches, but in either case must be well justified. Meaningful assessment and evaluation of NSF funded projects should be based on appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project. With respect to the third principle, even if assessment of Broader Impacts outcomes for particular projects is done at an aggregated level, PIs are expected to be accountable for carrying out the activities described in the funded project. Thus, individual projects should include clearly stated goals, specific descriptions of the activities that the PI intends to do, and a plan in place to document the outputs of those activities. These three merit review principles provide the basis for the merit review criteria, as well as a context within which the users of the criteria can better understand their intent.

2. Merit Review Criteria All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of the two National Science Board approved merit review criteria. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities. The two merit review criteria are listed below. Both criteria are to be given full consideration during the review and decision-making processes; each criterion is necessary but neither, by itself, is sufficient. Therefore, proposers must fully address both criteria. (PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i), contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal). Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i), prior to the review of a proposal. When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria: Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes. The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria: 1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)? 2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts? 3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success? 4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities? 5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities? Broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through the activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. NSF values the advancement of scientific knowledge and activities that contribute to achievement of societally relevant outcomes. Such outcomes include, but are not limited to: full participation of women, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented minorities in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM); improved STEM education and educator development at any level; increased public scientific literacy and public engagement with science and technology; improved well-being of individuals in society; development of a diverse, globally competitive STEM workforce; increased partnerships between academia, industry, and others; improved national security; increased economic competitiveness of the United States; and enhanced infrastructure for research and education.

1. Merit Review Principles These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply: All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge. NSF projects, in the aggregate, should contribute more broadly to achieving societal goals. These "Broader Impacts" may be accomplished through the research itself, through activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. The project activities may be based on previously established and/or innovative methods and approaches, but in either case must be well justified. Meaningful assessment and evaluation of NSF funded projects should be based on appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project. With respect to the third principle, even if assessment of Broader Impacts outcomes for particular projects is done at an aggregated level, PIs are expected to be accountable for carrying out the activities described in the funded project. Thus, individual projects should include clearly stated goals, specific descriptions of the activities that the PI intends to do, and a plan in place to document the outputs of those activities. These three merit review principles provide the basis for the merit review criteria, as well as a context within which the users of the criteria can better understand their intent.

2. Merit Review Criteria All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of the two National Science Board approved merit review criteria. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities. The two merit review criteria are listed below. Both criteria are to be given full consideration during the review and decision-making processes; each criterion is necessary but neither, by itself, is sufficient. Therefore, proposers must fully address both criteria. (PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i), contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal). Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including PAPPG Chapter II.C.2.d(i), prior to the review of a proposal. When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria: Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes. The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria: 1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)? 2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts? 3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success? 4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities? 5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities? Broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through the activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. NSF values the advancement of scientific knowledge and activities that contribute to achievement of societally relevant outcomes. Such outcomes include, but are not limited to: full participation of women, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented minorities in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM); improved STEM education and educator development at any level; increased public scientific literacy and public engagement with science and technology; improved well-being of individuals in society; development of a diverse, globally competitive STEM workforce; increased partnerships between academia, industry, and others; improved national security; increased economic competitiveness of the United States; and enhanced infrastructure for research and education.

OBJECTIVES:

To enable the U.S. to maintain its leadership within the global scientific community by strengthening international partnerships to advance scientific discovery and contribute to the scientific strength and welfare of the Nation; to promote research excellence through international collaboration; to develop a diverse, globally engaged U.S. science and engineering workforce by providing U.S. students and faculty with international research and education experiences. The research supported is basic in character. OISE programs include support of international research and education projects that are innovative and catalytic. OISE programs complement and enhance the Foundation's research and education portfolio to overcome barriers involved in international collaboration. Grants are made in all the disciplinary fields supported by NSF. Support is provided for international collaborative research; research workshops and planning visits; activities that will develop the next generation of U.S. scientists and engineers such as graduate traineeships, postdoctoral fellowships, special opportunities for junior faculty for research support, and dissertation enhancements; and for U.S. Government support to key multilateral organizations. Support is provided for undergraduate student international research and education experiences, and for research opportunities for women, minorities, and disabled scientists and engineers.

In some programs, support is provided by paying costs necessary to conduct research, such as salaries, equipment, supplies, travel, publications, and other direct and indirect costs. Primary responsibility for general supervision of all grant activities rests with the grantee institution; the project director or principal investigator is responsible for the execution of the research activities. Grants are made on a competitive basis. For all programs, funds may not be used for purposes other than those specified in the proposal.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

Proposals received by NSF are assigned to the appropriate NSF program for acknowledgement and, if they meet NSF requirements, for review. All proposals are carefully reviewed by a scientist, engineer, or educator serving as an NSF Program Officer, and usually by three to ten other persons outside NSF either as ad hoc reviewers, panelists, or both, who are experts in the particular fields represented by the proposal. These reviewers are selected by Program Officers charged with oversight of the review process. Proposers are invited to suggest names of persons they believe are especially well qualified to review the proposal and/or persons they would prefer not review the proposal. These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officer's discretion. Submission of such names, however, is optional. Care is taken to ensure that reviewers have no conflicts of interest with the proposal. In addition, Program Officers may obtain comments from site visits before recommending final action on proposals. Senior NSF staff further review recommendations for awards. A flowchart that depicts the entire NSF proposal and award process (and associated timeline) is included in PAPPG Exhibit III-1. A comprehensive description of the Foundation's merit review process is available on the NSF website at: https://www.nsf.gov/bfa/dias/policy/merit_review/. Proposers should also be aware of core strategies that are essential to the fulfillment of NSF's mission, as articulated in Building the Future: Investing in Discovery and Innovation - NSF Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2018 2022. These strategies are integrated in the program planning and implementation process, of which proposal review is one part. NSF's mission is particularly well-implemented through the integration of research and education and broadening participation in NSF programs, projects, and activities. One of the strategic objectives in support of NSF's mission is to foster integration of research and education through the programs, projects, and activities it supports at academic and research institutions. These institutions must recruit, train, and prepare a diverse STEM workforce to advance the frontiers of science and participate in the U.S. technology-based economy. NSF's contribution to the national innovation ecosystem is to provide cutting-edge research under the guidance of the Nation's most creative scientists and engineers. NSF also supports development of a strong science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) workforce by investing in building the knowledge that informs improvements in STEM teaching and learning. NSF's mission calls for the broadening of opportunities and expanding participation of groups, institutions, and geographic regions that are underrepresented in STEM disciplines, which is essential to the health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports. The National Science Foundation strives to invest in a robust and diverse portfolio of projects that creates new knowledge and enables breakthroughs in understanding across all areas of science and engineering research and education. To identify which projects to support, NSF relies on a merit review process that incorporates consideration of both the technical aspects of a proposed project and its potential to contribute more broadly to advancing NSF's mission "to promote the progress of science; to advance the national health, prosperity, and welfare; to secure the national defense; and for other purposes." NSF makes every effort to conduct a fair, competitive, transparent merit review process for the selection of projects. 1. Merit Review Principles These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply: All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge. appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project. Primary responsibility for general supervision of all grant activities rests with the grantee institution; the project director or principal investigator is responsible for the execution of the research activities. Grants are made on a competitive basis. For all programs, funds may not be used for purposes other than those specified in the proposal. EPSCoR Funds may be used to pay the costs of conducting research, product development, resources, tools and services, as salaries and wages, equipment and supplies, travel, publication costs, other direct costs, and indirect costs. Regarding the second consideration, a jurisdiction is eligible to participate in EPSCoR programs if its level of research support is equal to or less than 0.75 percent of the total NSF research budget for that same period.

Adjustments are made in the rare instances where a single large NSF-funded national or international facility skews the data.

These suggestions may serve as one source in the reviewer selection process at the Program Officer's discretion. Submission of such names, however, is optional. Care is taken to ensure that reviewers have no conflicts of interest with the proposal. In addition, Program Officers may obtain comments from site visits before recommending final action on proposals. Senior NSF staff further review recommendations for awards. A flowchart that depicts the entire NSF proposal and award process (and associated timeline) is included in PAPPG Exhibit III-1. A comprehensive description of the Foundation's merit review process is available on the NSF website at:

https://www.nsf.gov/bfa/dias/policy/merit_review/. Proposers should also be aware of core strategies that are essential to the fulfillment of NSF's mission, as articulated in Building the Future: Investing in Discovery and Innovation - NSF Strategic Plan for Fiscal Years (FY) 2018-2022. These strategies are integrated in the program planning and implementation process, of which proposal review is one part. NSF's mission is particularly well-implemented through the integration of research and education and broadening participation in NSF programs, projects, and activities. One of the strategic objectives in support of NSF's mission is to foster integration of research and education through the programs, projects, and activities it supports at academic and research institutions. These institutions must recruit, train, and prepare a diverse STEM workforce to advance the frontiers of science and participate in the U.S. technology-based economy. NSF's contribution to the national innovation ecosystem is to provide cutting-edge research under the guidance of the Nation's most creative scientists and engineers. NSF also supports development of a strong science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) workforce by investing in building the knowledge that informs improvements in STEM teaching and learning. NSF's mission calls for the broadening of opportunities and expanding participation of groups, institutions, and geographic regions that are underrepresented in STEM disciplines, which is essential to the health and vitality of science and engineering. NSF is committed to this principle of diversity and deems it central to the programs, projects, and activities it considers and supports. The National Science Foundation strives to invest in a robust and diverse portfolio of projects that creates new knowledge and enables breakthroughs in understanding across all areas of science and engineering research and education. To identify which projects to support, NSF relies on a merit review process that incorporates consideration of both the technical aspects of a proposed project and its potential to contribute more broadly to advancing NSF's mission "to promote the progress of science; to advance the national health, prosperity, and welfare; to secure the national defense; and for other purposes." NSF makes every effort to conduct a fair, competitive, transparent merit review process for the selection of projects. 1. Merit Review Principles These principles are to be given due diligence by PIs and organizations when preparing proposals and managing projects, by reviewers when reading and evaluating proposals, and by NSF program staff when determining whether or not to recommend proposals for funding and while overseeing awards. Given that NSF is the primary federal agency charged with nurturing and supporting excellence in basic research and education, the following three principles apply: All NSF projects should be of the highest quality and have the potential to advance, if not transform, the frontiers of knowledge. NSF projects, in the aggregate, should contribute more broadly to achieving societal goals. These "Broader Impacts" may be accomplished through the research itself, through activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. The project activities may be based on previously established and/or innovative methods and approaches, but in either case must be well justified. Meaningful assessment and evaluation of NSF funded projects should be based on appropriate metrics, keeping in mind the likely correlation between the effect of broader impacts and the resources provided to implement projects. If the size of the activity is limited, evaluation of that activity in isolation is not likely to be meaningful. Thus, assessing the effectiveness of these activities may best be done at a higher, more aggregated, level than the individual project. With respect to the third principle, even if assessment of Broader Impacts outcomes for particular projects is done at an aggregated level, PIs are expected to be accountable for carrying out the activities described in the funded project. Thus, individual projects should include clearly stated goals, specific descriptions of the activities that the PI intends to do, and a plan in place to document the outputs of those activities. These three merit review principles provide the basis for the merit review criteria, as well as a context within which the users of the criteria can better understand their intent. 2. Merit Review Criteria All NSF proposals are evaluated through use of the two National Science Board approved merit review criteria. In some instances, however, NSF will employ additional criteria as required to highlight the specific objectives of certain programs and activities. The two merit review criteria are listed below. Both criteria are to be given full consideration during the review and decision-making processes; each criterion is necessary but neither, by itself, is sufficient. Therefore, proposers must fully address both criteria. (PAPPG Chapter I.I.C.2.d(i). contains additional information for use by proposers in development of the Project Description section of the proposal). Reviewers are strongly encouraged to review the criteria, including PAPPG Chapter I.I.C.2.d(i), prior to the review of a proposal. When evaluating NSF proposals, reviewers will be asked to consider what the proposers want to do, why they want to do it, how they plan to do it, how they will know if they succeed, and what benefits could accrue if the project is successful. These issues apply both to the technical aspects of the proposal and the way in which the project may make broader contributions. To that end, reviewers will be asked to evaluate all proposals against two criteria: Intellectual Merit: The Intellectual Merit criterion encompasses the potential to advance knowledge; and Broader Impacts: The Broader Impacts criterion encompasses the potential to benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific, desired societal outcomes. The following elements should be considered in the review for both criteria: 1. What is the potential for the proposed activity to a. Advance knowledge and understanding within its own field or across different fields (Intellectual Merit); and b. Benefit society or advance desired societal outcomes (Broader Impacts)? 2. To what extent do the proposed activities suggest and explore creative, original, or potentially transformative concepts? 3. Is the plan for carrying out the proposed activities well-reasoned, well-organized, and based on a sound rationale? Does the plan incorporate a mechanism to assess success? 4. How well qualified is the individual, team, or organization to conduct the proposed activities? 5. Are there adequate resources available to the PI (either at the home organization or through collaborations) to carry out the proposed activities? Broader impacts may be accomplished through the research itself, through the activities that are directly related to specific research projects, or through activities that are supported by, but are complementary to, the project. NSF values the advancement of scientific knowledge and activities that contribute to achievement of societally relevant outcomes. Such outcomes include, but are not limited to: full participation of women, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented minorities in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM); improved STEM education and educator development at any level; increased public scientific literacy and public engagement with science and technology; improved well-being of individuals in society; development of a diverse, globally competitive STEM workforce; increased partnerships between academia, industry, and others; improved national security; increased economic competitiveness of the United States; and enhanced infrastructure for research and education.

64.029 Purchase Care Program

Purchase Care Program - VA Health Administration Center,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

VA HEALTH ADMINISTRATION CENTER, VETERANS AFFAIRS, DEPARTMENT OF

AUTHORIZATION:

Department of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 1997, , Public Law 104-204, 38 USC Code 1752-1756.

OBJECTIVES:

The Veterans Health Administration Office of Community Care (VHA OCC) operates two main service lines; Delivery Operations and Revenue Operations, that support medical care delivery and services for Veterans and their families. VHA OCC is also responsible for functions that support these service lines such as administration, planning, oversight and stakeholder relations. Delivery Operations manages all of the programs that allow Veterans and their family members to receive care and services through community providers outside of VA (i.e. Veterans Choice Program and traditional community care) and manages Veteran and family member programs that pay for care outside of VA (i.e. Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Department of Veterans Affairs (CHAMPVA) and Foreign Medical Program (FMP)). Revenue Operations manages the centralized processes that allow VA to collect revenue from private health insurance carriers for non-service connected care provided to insured Veterans. Funds that are collected go back to VA medical facilities to provide health care services to Veterans. VHA OCC is mainly responsible for managing back-end revenue cycle processes that take place at the seven Consolidated Patient Account Centers (CPACs) located across the country. Other functions of VHA OCC support and strengthen the effectiveness of its business lines. These include strategy, policy and planning, budget, workforce management, performance improvement and oversight, data integration, communications and stakeholder relations. Taken together, VHA OCC works closely with Veterans and their families, community providers, and VA staff to ensure Veterans can get care from community providers when needed, administers VHA's beneficiary programs, and collects revenue from private health insurance carriers to provide additional financial support to VA medical facility operations.

64.051 Specially Adapted Housing Assistive Technology Grant Program

Specially Adapted Housing Assistive Technology (SAHAT) Grant Program,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

VETERANS BENEFITS ADMINISTRATION, VETERANS AFFAIRS, DEPARTMENT OF

AUTHORIZATION:

Veterans Benefits Act of 2010, , Public Law 111-275, 38 USC Code 2108.

OBJECTIVES:

Pursuant to the Veterans Benefit Act of 2010, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs (Secretary), through the Loan Guaranty Service (LGY) of the Veterans Benefits Administration (VBA), is authorized to provide grants of financial assistance to develop new assistive technology. The objective of the grant, known as the Specially Adapted Housing Assistive Technology (SAHAT) Grant Program, is to encourage the development of new assistive technologies for specially adapted housing.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) acknowledges there are many emerging technologies that could improve home adaptations or otherwise enhance a Veterans or Servicemembers ability to live independently, such as voice-recognition and voice-command operations, living environment controls, and adaptive feeding equipment. Therefore, VA has defined new assistive technology as an advancement the Secretary determines could aid or augment the ability of a Veteran or Servicemember to live in an adapted home. Grantees will be expected to leverage grant funds to plan, develop, manage, and implement new assistive technologies for specially adapted housing. Since the new program would also be open to individuals and private entities, some of the applicants will not meet the definition of non-Federal entity or recipient, as defined under part 200, and certain provisions of part 200 may not be applicable to all applicants in this technology grant program. Where the Secretary determines a provision is not applicable or where the Secretary determines that additional requirements are necessary due to the uniqueness of a situation, the Secretary would apply the same standard applicable to exceptions under 2 CFR 200.102. Although part 200 does not define the term exception, Sec. 200.102 is clear that an exception can relax an existing requirement or make additional, more restrictive requirements on a participant. Section 200.102 requires that if an exception is more restrictive on a certain class of participants than that which is otherwise provided in part 200, VA must receive approval from OMB. If an exception is less restrictive than what is provided in part 200, Sec. 200.102 authorizes VA to grant the exception on a case-by-case basis. It is impossible to anticipate every way in which the Secretary can or should exercise oversight authority. The purpose of this provision is to ensure that a loophole in a regulation does not unduly hinder the Secretary's ability to protect the public interest or prevent private individuals or organizations from participating because of technicalities related to oversight.

Applicant Eligibility:

Individual/Family; Public nonprofit institution/organization (includes institutions of higher education and hospitals); Small business (less than 500 employees); Profit organization; Private nonprofit institution/organization (includes institutions of higher education and hospitals); Other private institutions/organizations; Anyone/general public; As authorized by 38 U.S.C. 2108, the Secretary may award grants to a person or entity for the development of specially adapted housing assistive technologies. In order to foster competition and best serve the needs of Veterans and Servicemembers, VA is placing no restrictions on the types of eligible entities outside of threshold criteria listed in the NOFA. All technology grant recipients, including individuals and entities formed as for-profit entities, will be subject to the rules of the Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants and Agreements With Institutions of Higher Education, Hospitals, and other Non-profit Organizations, as found at 2 CFR Part 200. Where the Secretary determines that 2 CFR Part 200 is not applicable or where the Secretary determines that additional requirements are necessary due to the uniqueness of a situation, the Secretary will apply the same standard applicable to exceptions under 2 CFR 200.102.

Beneficiary Eligibility:

Individual/Family; Specialized group (e.g. health professionals, students, veterans); Projects funded under this announcement must involve new assistive technologies the Secretary determines could aid or enhance the ability of a Veteran or Servicemember to live in an adapted home. However, projects funded under this announcement must not be used for the completion of activities which were to have been completed under a prior grant.

Credentials/Documentation:

Applicants shall provide proof of individual or organizational ability to engage in the development of assistive technologies for specially adapted housing. This program is excluded from coverage under 2 CFR 200, Subpart E - Cost Principles.

Preapplication Coordination:

Pre-application coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is excluded from coverage under E.O. 12372. OBJECTIVES:

In accordance with the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 1744, this part sets forth the mechanism for a State to obtain payments to assist a State Veterans Home (SVH) in the hiring and retention of nurses for the purpose of reducing nursing shortages at that SVH.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

(a) VA will make payment to a State Veterans Home (SVH) for an employee incentive program to reduce the shortage of nurses at the SVH, when the following conditions are met:(1) The State representative applies for payment in accordance with the provisions of 53.20;(2) The SVH receives per diem payments from VA under the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 1741 for one or more of the following: Adult day health care, domiciliary care, or nursing home care;(3) The SVH has a nursing shortage that is documented by credible evidence, including but not limited to SVH records showing nursing vacancies, SVH records showing nurse overtime use, and reports documenting that nurses are difficult to hire in the local area and difficult to retain as employees at the SVH;(4) The SVH does not use payments under this part to pay for all or part of a nurse's standard employee benefits, such as salary, health insurance, or retirement plan;(5) The SVH provides to the Director, Geriatrics and Extended Care Operations, documentation establishing that it has an employee incentive program that:(i) Is likely to be effective in promoting the hiring and retention of nurses for the purpose of reducing nursing shortages at that home, and(ii) Is in operation or ready for immediate implementation if VA payments are made under this part;(6) The payment amount applied for by the State is no more than 50 percent of the funding for the employee incentive program during the Federal fiscal year;(7) The SVH employee incentive program includes a mechanism to ensure that an individual receiving benefits under the program works at the SVH as a nurse for a period commensurate with the benefits provided, and, insofar as possible, the program is designed to eliminate any nursing shortage at the SVH within a 3-year period from the initiation of VA payments;(8) The SVH, if it received payments under this part during a previous Federal fiscal year, has met the reporting requirements of 53.31(a) regarding such payments;(9) The SVH credits to its employee incentive program any funds refunded to the SVH by an employee because the employee was in breach of an agreement for employee assistance funded with payments made under this part and the SVH credits the amount returned as a non-Federal funding source; and(10) The project does not involve the construction, acquisition, expansion, remodeling or alteration of the SVH.(b) VA intends to allow flexibility and innovation in determining the types of employee incentive programs at SVHs eligible for payments. Programs could include such things as the provision of short-term scholarships for continuing nursing education, sign-on bonuses for nurses, student loan forgiveness programs, and improvements to working conditions. In determining whether an employee incentive program is likely to be effective, VA will consider any information available, including past performance of the SVH's program funded by payments made under this part.

64.116 Vocational Rehabilitation for Disabled Veterans

(Vocational Rehabilitation),

FEDERAL AGENCY:

VETERANS BENEFITS ADMINISTRATION, VETERANS AFFAIRS, DEPARTMENT OF

AUTHORIZATION:

Veterans' Rehabilitation and Education Amendments of 1980, , Public Law 96-466, 38 USC Code 3102.

OBJECTIVES:

To provide all services and assistance necessary to enable Veterans with service connected disabilities and service members hospitalized or receiving outpatient medical care services or treatment for a service- connected disability pending discharge to get and keep a suitable job. When employment is not reasonably feasible, the program can provide the needed services and assistance to help the individual achieve maximum independence in daily living.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Direct Loans, Direct Payments for Specified Use, Direct Payments with Unrestricted Use

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The program offers the services and assistance necessary for an individual to increase their level of independence in daily living, or obtain and retain suitable employment. This is employment that matches the individual's aptitudes, interests, and abilities and does not worsen the individual's disabilities. An individual may reach an employment goal directly by receiving job seeking and job placement services. If direct placement is not possible, the program provides education or training to qualify the individual for employment. If the individual requires education or training, the program provides for direct payment to service providers for the entire cost of tuition, books, fees, supplies, and other services. As part or all of a rehabilitation program, individuals may receive services and training designed to help them increase their level of independence in their homes and communities. Counseling services are provided to the individual throughout his or her participation in the program. In addition to disability compensation, the veteran receives a monthly subsistence allowance when participating in training at least half-time. Advances of up to $1,260 may be made to veterans to meet unexpected financial difficulties. These advances do not bear interest and are repaid out of future VA benefit payments. Although no set repayment period is established, the monthly rate of repayment may not generally be less than 10 percent. In general, a new advance may not be made until a previous advance has been fully repaid. Usually, the training phase of the rehabilitation program may not exceed the equivalent of 48 months of full-time benefits nor may training be provided more than 12 years after the individual becomes eligible to apply for the program. Following training, or sometimes as the whole of a rehabilitation program, the veteran may also receive up to 18 months of counseling, job placement and post-placement services. The veteran may receive an employment adjustment allowance equal to 2 months of subsistence during this period of services, but only if employability was achieved as a result of services received in a program which included training. Veterans who meet certain requirements may receive assistance to become self-employed.

Applicant Eligibility:

Individual/Family; Veterans of World War II and later service with a service-connected disability or disabilities rated at least 20 percent compensable and certain service-disabled servicepersons pending discharge or release from service if VA determines the servicepersons will likely receive at least a 20 percent rating and they need vocational rehabilitation because of an employment handicap. Veterans with a 10 percent service-connected disability may be eligible if they first applied for vocational rehabilitation prior to November 1, 1990, and they have an employment handicap. ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

66.001 Air Pollution Control Program Support

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Clean Air Act, Section 105, Public Law 101-549, Title National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), Section 102(2)(F)

ASSISTANCE LISTINGS DESCRIPTIONS

OBJECTIVES:

The objectives of the 105 program are to assist state, tribal, municipal, intermunicipal, and interstate air pollution control agencies in planning, developing, establishing, improving, and maintaining adequate programs for the continuing prevention and control of air pollution, and/or in the implementation of national primary and secondary air quality standards. Funding Priorities - Fiscal Year 2021: Much of the work occurring in FY 2020, including the implementation of the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS), monitoring industry compliance with EPA stationary source regulations, developing emission inventories, characterizing air toxics problems, and meeting NAAQS ambient monitoring requirements, will continue into FY 2021. Section 105 of the CAA provides EPA with the authority to award grants to state and local air pollution control agencies to develop and implement continuing environmental and public health programs for the prevention and control of air pollution, implementation of the NAAQS and improving visibility in our national parks and wilderness areas (Class I areas). The continuing activities funded under Section 105 include: analysis and planning for attainment and maintenance of NAAQS; emission reduction measures; development and operation of air quality monitoring networks, and other air program activities. Specific expectations and deliverables are established through negotiations in grant agreements between regions and air pollution control agencies. OAR encourages air pollution control agencies to engage EPA on activities where there may be opportunities for flexibility. The Office of Air and Radiation's National Program Guidance identifies key priorities and activities expected to be undertaken by EPA Headquarters and Regional offices and implementing air agencies in national areas of focus. OARs current NP Guidance can be found at <https://www.epa.gov/planandbudget/national-program-guidance>. The monitoring guidance outlines monitoring priorities, quality assurance programs, and funding projections. Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory formula is not applicable to this assistance listing. Matching Requirements: Percent: 40%. Requirement: Matching requirements are mandatory. The Clean Air Act does not prescribe a specific statutory funding formula but does direct that the factors of population, the extent and severity of the air pollution problem, and financial need, be considered in the allocation of available resources by the Agency. State, interstate, and local programs may receive up to 60 % federal funding for the total approved program costs. The non-tribal grantee must contribute a minimum of 40% as well as meet a maintenance of effort (MOE) requirement. The amount of federal share of grant costs should be determined by reference to the criteria set forth in Section 105 of the Clean Air Act and in 40 CFR 35.145, 40 CFR 35.146, and 40 CFR 147. Not more than 10 % of the total of funds appropriated for Section 105 grants shall be granted for air pollution control programs in any one state. Not less than one-half of one % of the annual appropriations are to be made available to a state for application. EPA can award less than the 0.5% level if the level of funding is not justified in the work plan. For Indian tribes establishing eligibility pursuant to Section 35.573, the Regional Administrator may provide financial assistance in an amount up to 95 % of the approved costs of planning, developing, establishing, or improving an air pollution control program, and up to 95 % of the approved costs of maintaining that program. After 2 years from the date of each tribe's initial grant award, the Regional Administrator will reduce the maximum federal share to 90 %, as long as the Regional Administrator determines that the tribe meets certain economic indicators that would provide an objective assessment of the tribe's ability to increase its share. This program has MOE requirements, see funding agency for further details. Additional Information: This program does have a maintenance of

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

2021 Continuing program grants are provided to state, local and tribal air pollution control agencies for the purpose of operating programs that plan and implement activities to achieve the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS). These programs cover: planning for attainment of updated NAAQS including fine particulates and ozone; state implementation plan development; ambient monitoring; emission inventories; air and emissions modeling; source permitting; certain compliance and enforcement activities related to mobile and non-Title V stationary and area sources; public outreach and education activities; development and implementation of air quality regulations; implementation of market-based, early action compacts and other innovative air pollution reduction or prevention strategies; technical training; risk and data analyses; information management; and program evaluation, progress reporting and other program operation and maintenance activities.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

The criteria for awarding air pollution control program assistance grants are provided in Section 105 of the Clean Air Act. Additional criteria for state and local air pollution control agencies are available in 40 CFR 35.140 through 148. Some of the criteria considered for award to state and local agencies include the following: 1) No grant may be awarded unless the program contained in the grant application meets the requirements of 40 CFR 35.140 (program purposes and associated regulations) and has been approved by the Regional Administrator. 40 CFR 35.104 and 35.107 describe what an agency needs to do to prepare an adequate application. This usually includes the use of annual program technical and grant guidance from EPA and is generally done in consultation with the EPA Regional Office. 2) No grant may be awarded until the Regional Administrator has consulted with the official designated by the Governor(s) of the state(s) affected by such award pursuant to Section 105(b) of the Clean Air Act. Such consultation should consider the role of the applicant in the enforcement of any applicable implementation plan and confirm that the applicant's program will be generally compatible with the objectives of the applicable implementation plan. 3) No grant may be awarded unless the Regional Administrator has determined that the agency has adequate air pollution control authority and necessary regulations to implement such authority. The requirements for awarding Section 105 grants to tribal air pollution control agencies are described in 40 CFR 35.570 through 578.

RELATED PROGRAMS:

Not Applicable.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

2021 Examples of projects funded in FY 2020 include: 1) adopting, or seeking to adopt, radon building codes for single family homes; 2) promoting radon awareness through the medical community, state cancer control plans, childcare providers and real estate transactions; 3) providing training and technical support on voluntary consensus standards for radon testing and mitigation, identifying and spreading best practices for building homes radon resistant and adopting radon in building codes; 4) providing radon awareness building and/or education activities that target homebuyers; 5) informing local school systems about radon exposure risk in schools and providing sample school testing and mitigation plans; 6) developing or implementing processes to ensure appropriate certification or credentialing of radon testing and mitigation service providers; and 7) collecting available radon test result data to develop locality-specific classifications of radon risks and to support the CDC Environmental Public Health Tracking Network radon site.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

The EPA will base its review of SIRG applications on whether they reflect program goals and promote integrity through a states use of grant funds. Pursuant to TSCA Section 306(e), if state applications exceed the funds appropriated for award in a fiscal year, EPA will prioritize state activities based on the following criteria: (1) the seriousness and extent of the radon contamination problem to be addressed; (2) the potential for the activity or project to bring about reduction in radon levels; (3) the potential for the development of innovative radon assessment techniques, mitigation measures as approved by the Administrator, or program management approaches which may be of use to other States; (4) the potential for the activity to implement EPA's model radon-resistant building standards; (5) the potential for the development of radon programs in high-risk areas; and (6) the potential for the activity to improve the effectiveness and viability of the State program. EPA may establish additional criteria related to demonstration activities or other aspects of the SIRG program.

66.033 Ozone Transport Commission

OTC,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Clean Air Act, Section 106

OBJECTIVES:

The overall goal of the Ozone Transport Commission (OTC) grant is to facilitate collaboration among the OTC jurisdictions, notably the State Environmental Commissioners/Secretaries, State Air Directors and their staff, to assist them in reducing ozone precursor emissions in their states and in representing their ozone related issues to the EPA. The focus of the OTC is to ensure real results in air quality improvement in the Ozone Transport Region. The OTC brings together the State members to coordinate reductions in air pollution to benefit the entire region. The Ozone Transport Commission (OTC or the Commission) is the single regional multi-state organization created under the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990 (CAA) responsible for advising EPA on ground-level ozone and its precursor pollutant transport issues. The Commission is responsible for developing and implementing regional solutions to the ground-level ozone problem in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic States. As directed under the CAA, EPA awards grants to the Commission under the authority of Section 106 of the CAA. Section 184 of the CAA established the Ozone Transport Region (OTR) that, by law, develops and recommends regional strategies for cleaning up air pollution. Funding Priorities - Fiscal Year 2021: The OTC states continue to face significant challenges in preparing SIPs for the attainment of the 2008 and the 2015 Ozone U.S. National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS). These challenges are highlighted by the recent increases in monitored ozone levels and will require a greater level of regional support and coordination from the OTC. The member states rely on OTC work products, particularly sound science, to meet their individual state implementation plan (SIP) obligations. The coordinated and collaborative effort of OTCs Committees represents the most efficient, cost effective, and in certain cases the only possible means to assemble all the necessary elements of an attainment plan for OTC States. The OTC will continue to take a leadership role in coordinating with other Regional Planning Organizations (RPOs), contributing States, and EPA offices to assist in the resolution of ozone transport issues under CAA section 110 (a)(2)(D). The OTC Modeling Committee (MC) continued its work on regional air quality modeling to assist OTC states' efforts in attaining and maintaining the 2008 and 2015 (o3) National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS) through regional measures developed in partnership with EPA. The MC focused on new 2016-based modeling platform development and testing, as well as updating emission inventories and assessments for base year 2016 and projection years 2023 and 2028. The new 2016 platform includes a newly enlarged OTC-12km modeling domain that extends farther to the west (including parts of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico) and south (including Texas and Florida). The MC also developed plans for an OTC-4km nested grid located along the northeastern urban corridor and ocean coastline and model development is in progress. In ongoing work, the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (NYSDEC) Modeling Center is comparing the Integrated Planning Model (IPM) and Eastern Regional Technical Advisory Committee (ERTAC) electricity generating unit (EGU) options in the Community Multi-scale Air Quality (CMAQ) model output for biases in O3 design values for 2023 and 2028. Modeling simulations were recently redone to account for updates to the 2016 emissions platform for sectors including airports and EGUs. Additionally, NYSDEC modelers are comparing predicted O3 design value calculations at coastal monitoring sites using four different grid methods. Different methods result in variations in model-estimated design values at coastal monitor locations.

EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

2020 The Stationary and Area Sources (SAS) Committees work focused on addressing the charge given to it during the OTC annual meeting. Ad hoc work groups convened to address specific charge items. The industrial/commercial/institutional boilers (ICI boilers) Workgroup met v and compiled documentation for extracting point and nonpoint sources data from EMF, and accessing control measure codes, SCC information, as well as monthly and day-of-the-week temporal profiles from EPA. This information was used to calculate estimated daily emissions and provide a report on ICI Boiler Max Day Emissions Analysis per the charge. Other workgroups (for Municipal Waste Combustors, small EGUs, distributed generation, natural gas pipeline compressor prime movers, and cement kilns) were formed and started convening to execute the workplans for addressing specific charge items. The Committee also reviewed and addressed the comments received during the second hearing/public comment period on MDs petition under Section 184(c) of the CAA on the control of interstate ozone air pollution through additional control measures on Pennsylvania coal-fired power plants. The Committee provided its final recommendations on the petition to the Commission.

66.039 Diesel Emission Reduction Act (DERA) National Grants

DERA National Grants,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Diesel Emissions Reduction Act of 2010, , Public Law 111-364, 42 USC Code 16132.

OBJECTIVES:

The Diesel Emissions Reduction Act, 42 U.S.C. 16132 et seq., as amended, authorizes EPA to award grants, rebates and loans to eligible entities to fund diesel emissions reductions. Emission reductions are achieved through the implementation of a certified engine configuration, verified retrofit technology, or emerging technology for buses (including school buses), medium heavy-duty or heavy heavy-duty diesel trucks, marine engines, locomotives, or nonroad engines used in construction, handling of cargo (including at port or airport), agriculture, mining, or energy production. In addition, eligible entities may also use funds awarded to reduce long-duration idling using verified idle-reduction technology with certain vehicles or equipment described above. The objective of the assistance under this program is to achieve significant reductions in diesel emissions in terms of tons of pollution produced and reductions in diesel emissions exposure, particularly from fleets operating in areas designated by the Administrator as poor air quality areas. Projects should also focus on promoting environmental justice (EJ). EJ is the fair treatment and meaningful involvement of all people regardless of race, color, national origin, or income with respect to the development, implementation and enforcement of environmental laws, regulations and policies. Funding Priorities - Fiscal Year 2021: The National DERA program works to reduce the pollution emitted from diesel engines across the country through the implementation of various control strategies and involvement of national, state, local and private partners. Priority will be given to projects which achieve significant reductions in diesel emissions and exposure, particularly from fleets operating at or servicing goods movement facilities located in areas designated as having poor air quality. Further, priority for funding may be given to projects which result in outcomes that benefit affected communities, those that engage local communities with respect to the design and performance of the project, and those which can demonstrate the ability to promote and continue efforts to reduce emissions after the project has ended. Poor air quality areas include areas in nonattainment or maintenance of national ambient air quality standards for PM2.5 and Ozone, and areas with toxic air pollutant concerns. In FY2021, projects will be competed and funded under the 2021 DERA National Grants Request for Proposals, and the 2021 DERA Tribal Grants Request for Proposals. Emerging Technologies Program grants and SmartWay Finance Program grants will not be funded in FY2021. The DERA National Grant Program works to reduce the pollution emitted from diesel engines across the country through the implementation of various control strategies and involvement of national, state, local and private partners. Priority shall be given to projects which achieve significant reductions in diesel emissions in terms of tons of pollution produced by diesel engines and diesel emissions exposure, particularly from fleets operating at or servicing goods movement facilities located in areas designated as having poor air quality. Further, priority for funding may be given to projects which result in outcomes that benefit affected communities, those that engage local communities with respect to the design and performance of the project, and those which can demonstrate the ability to promote and continue efforts to reduce emissions after the project has ended. Poor air quality areas include areas in nonattainment or maintenance of national ambient air quality standards for PM2.5 and Ozone, and areas with toxic air pollutant concerns.

66.040 Diesel Emissions Reduction Act (DERA)

State Grants

DERA State Grants,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Diesel Emissions Reduction Act of 2010, , 42 USC Code 16131, et seq., as amended.

OBJECTIVES:

The Diesel Emissions Reduction Act, 42 U.S.C. 16131 et seq., as amended, authorizes EPA to award assistance agreements to states and territories to develop and implement such grant, rebates, and loan programs in the states and territories as are appropriate to meet state and territory needs and goals relating to the reduction of diesel emissions. Funding Priorities - Fiscal Year 2021: In providing grants, rebates, and loans under this program, states must give priority to projects which: maximize public health benefits; are the most cost-effective; serve areas with the highest population density, that are poor air quality areas (including nonattainment or maintenance of national ambient air quality standards for a criteria pollutant; Federal Class I areas; or areas with toxic air pollutant concerns); serve areas that receive a disproportionate quantity of air pollution from diesel fleets, including truck stops, ports, rail yards, terminals, construction sites, schools, and distribution centers or that use a community-based multi-stakeholder collaborative process to reduce toxic emissions; will only include a certified engine configuration or verified technology that has a long expected useful life; maximize the useful life of any certified engine configuration or verified technology used or funded by the eligible entity; and conserve diesel fuel.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Formula Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Grants and cooperative agreements are available to support the development and implementation of such grant, rebate, and low-cost revolving loan programs in a state as are appropriate to meet state needs and goals relating to the reduction of diesel emissions. A grant, rebate, or loan funded by the state using funds from the DERA State Program must be used for projects involving EPA-verified and/or California Air Resources Board (CARB) verified diesel emissions reduction technologies and/or EPA certified engines. Funds received under the DERA National Grants Program (see assistance listing 66.039) may not be used to pay a matching share under this program. States must use the same statutory priorities as the national competitive program when selecting projects. States receiving funding under this program must comply with public notification requirements. Additional project eligibility and use restrictions may be defined in program guidance.

Applicant Eligibility:

State (includes District of Columbia, public institutions of higher education and hospitals); U.S. Territories and possessions; Assistance under this program is available to the 50 states and the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, Guam, and the Northern Mariana Islands.

Both public owned fleets and privately owned fleets may benefit.

Credentials/Documentation:

EPA presumes that the state agency with jurisdiction over air quality will be the lead agency to receive these funds. If a states circumstances dictate that another state agency administer the funds, then a letter from the state governor or designee to the Administrator of EPA is required in order to certify one state agency as the recipient of funds who has the legal and administrative authority to enter into a grant or cooperative agreement with EPA. 2 CFR 200, Sub-part E - Cost Principles applies to this program.

Preapplication Coordination:

Pre-application coordination is required. Environmental impact information is not required for this program. This program is eligible for coverage under E.O. 12372, "Intergovernmental Review of Federal Programs." An applicant should consult the office or official designated as the single point of contact in his or her State for more information on the process the State requires to be followed in applying for assistance, if the State has selected the program for review. EPA financial assistance programs and activities subject to intergovernmental review that are subject to review under State single point of contact procedures are identified at <https://www.epa.gov/grants/epa-financial-assistance-programs-subject-executive-order-12372-and-section-204-demonstration>. Applicants for programs or activities subject to Intergovernmental Review that are not subject to State single point of contact review must provide directly affected State, areawide, regional, and local entities at least 60 days to review their application following notification by EPA that the application has been selected for funding as provided by 40 CFR 29.8(a) and (c). Regarding pre-application assistance with respect to this program description, EPA will generally specify the nature of the pre-application assistance, if any, that will be available to applicants. Formula and Matching Requirements:

Statutory Formula: Title , Chapter , Part , Subpart .Public Law 111-364. Matching Requirements: Percent: 0%. Requirement: Matching requirements are mandatory. This program has a statutory allocation formula (42 U.S.C. 16133(c)). There is no statutory match requirement for this program. However, there is a statutory incentive match provision (42 U.S.C. 16133(c)(3)). Program guidance may restrict the eligibility and amount of grant funds that may be used for certain types of projects. While there is no statutory requirement for a matching contribution from applicants, FY 2019 programmatic policy guidance requires a mandatory match for certain type of projects (engine upgrades, idle reduction technologies, engine replacements, vehicle/equipment replacements, and alternative fuel conversions). Any voluntary matching funds provided by the state to qualify for the matching incentive are included in the EPA funds and state voluntary matching funds described below. Mandatory cost-share funds provided by the state and/or eligible third parties cannot count towards the states voluntary matching funds to qualify for the matching incentive. However, if a state requires a third-party cost-share contribution above and beyond the mandatory cost-share amount for the elected technology, then the excess cost-share may be applied towards the state voluntary match funds for the purpose of qualifying for the matching incentive. The recipient may not use EPA funds and state voluntary matching funds to provide more than the cost-share percentages outlined below, as applicable, of the final equipment costs. Recipients must satisfy any applicable cost-share requirements with allowable costs as set forth in 2 CFR 200.306. The cost-share requirements are as follows: Engine Upgrades: EPA funds and state voluntary matching funds can cover up to 40% of the cost (labor and equipment) of an eligible engine upgrade; states and/or eligible third parties are responsible for the mandatory cost-share of at least 60% of the cost of an eligible engine upgrade. Marine Shore Power Connection Systems: EPA funds and state voluntary matching funds can cover up to 25% of the cost (labor and equipment) of an eligible shore connection system; states and/or eligible third parties are responsible for the mandatory cost-share of at least 75% of the cost of an eligible shore connection system. Electrified Parking Spaces (EPS): EPA funds and state voluntary matching funds can cover up to 30% of the cost (labor and equipment) of eligible EPS technology; states and/or eligible third parties are responsible for the mandatory cost-share of at least 70% of the cost of eligible EPS technology. Certified Engine Replacement: EPA funds and state voluntary matching funds can cover up to 40% of the cost (labor and equipment) of an eligible diesel or alternative fuel engine replacement. States and/or eligible third parties are responsible for the mandatory cost-share of at least 60% of the cost of an eligible engine replacement. Highway Low-NOx: EPA funds and state voluntary matching funds can cover up to 50% of the cost (labor and equipment) of replacing a highway diesel engine with a 2016 model year or newer engine that is certified to CARBs Optional Low-NOx Standards of 0.1 g/bhp-hr, 0.05 g/bhp-hr, or 0.02 g/bhp-hr NOx. 2021 Projects consist of monitoring of small headwaters streams in undeveloped watersheds; monitoring of lakes smaller than four hectares with low acid neutralizing capacity levels in acid-sensitive regions; monitoring of lake and stream sulfate and nitrate concentrations in acid-sensitive regions of the eastern U.S.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPOSALS:

EPA selects proposed TIME/LTM projects for funding based on factors such as relevancy to EPA's mission, technical merit, and the likelihood of success. If EPA issues a solicitation for applications for a particular project or group of projects, the solicitation will identify specific criteria.

Funding Priorities - Fiscal Year 2021: a. Clean, Green and Healthy Schools: Projects that focus on creating clean, green and healthy school environments by promoting EPA's State School Environmental Health Guidelines, EPA's Voluntary Guidelines for Selecting Safe School Location and their design, construction, and renovation, EPA's 3Ts for Reducing Lead in Drinking Water in Schools, and/or implementing replicable programs across New England serving children's environmental health at K-12 schools. b. develop and adopt source reduction practices. Source reduction means reducing or eliminating pollutants from entering any waste stream or otherwise being released into the environment prior to recycling, treatment or disposal. In addition to reducing pollutants entering the environment, source reduction also includes reducing the use of water, energy and other raw materials.

The statutory authorities for this program restrict the use of assistance agreements to support the following activities: conducting or promoting the coordination and acceleration of research, investigations, experiments, training, demonstrations, surveys, and studies relating to the causes, effects (including health and welfare effects), extent, prevention, and elimination of water pollution. Demonstrations must involve new or experimental technologies, methods, or approaches, and it is encouraged that the results of these projects will be disseminated so that others can benefit from the knowledge gained. A project that is accomplished through the performance of routine, traditional, or established practices, or a project that is simply intended to carry out a task rather than transfer information or advance the state of knowledge, however worthwhile the project might be, is not considered a demonstration project. Assistance agreement awards under this program may involve or relate to geospatial information. Further information regarding geospatial information may be obtained by viewing the following website: Geospatial Resources at EPA (<https://www.epa.gov/geospatial>).

66.121 Puget Sound Protection and Restoration: Tribal Implementation Assistance Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Clean Water Act, Section 320, Title EPA Annual Appropriation Acts,

OBJECTIVES:

Puget Sound has been designated as one of 28 estuaries of National Significance under 320 of the Clean Water Act. The goal of the National Estuary Program is to attain and maintain water quality in designated estuaries that would assure protection of public water supplies and the protection and propagation of a balanced, indigenous population of shellfish, fish and wildlife and allows recreational activities in and on the water. The Puget Sound National Estuary Program's approved Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plan (CCMP) is the Action Agenda. The Action Agenda for Puget Sound charts the course to recovery of our nation's largest estuary it complements and incorporates the work of many partners from around Puget Sound to describe regional strategies and specific actions needed to recover Puget Sound. These strategies and actions provide opportunities for federal, state, local, tribal, and private entities to better invest resources and coordinate actions. The EPA is committed to protecting and improving water quality and minimizing the adverse impacts of rapid development in the Puget Sound Basin. These commitments include protecting the watersheds and waters of Puget Sound by protecting the fundamental watershed processes that provide and create aquatic habitats and by reducing the generation and release of toxic, nutrient and pathogen pollution. The Puget Sound Protection and Restoration: Tribal Implementation Assistance Program is aimed at assisting the Indian Tribes of the greater Puget Sound basin in their efforts to carry out work critically needed for Puget Sound protection and restoration. This work includes activities identified in, or consistent with, the Action Agenda such as efforts called for by established salmon recovery plans in the Puget Sound basin. EPA has a trust responsibility to Federally recognized Indian Tribes. EPA also recognizes that Federally recognized Indian Tribes in the greater Puget Sound basin have a critical role in the protection and restoration of the ecosystem and its resources. EPA seeks to provide financial assistance to these Tribes to help them implement priority strategies and actions in or consistent with the approved Clean Water Act 320 CCMP for Puget Sound. Funding Priorities - Fiscal Year 2021: Tribal Capacity grants (non-competitive) will be continued to support each Tribe and Consortium to participate in the Puget Sound Management Conference, depending on appropriations. Eligible tasks include representing tribal interests in Management Conference forums and processes and other activities like identifying limiting factors to habitat protection and salmon and shellfish recovery. Tribal Implementation Lead grant (competitive) will be continued with incremental FY2021 funding, depending on appropriations, to support eligible subaward work which includes watershed and marine/estuary habitat restoration projects. We anticipate that many of these projects will directly address salmon and shellfish recovery.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements, Cooperative Agreements (Discretionary Grants)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Puget Sound funds were appropriated by Congress in conjunction with the Clean Water Act for development and implementation of programs that will improve water quality, air quality and for development and minimize the adverse impacts of rapid development in the Puget Sound basin, including activities linked to habitat restoration projects or controlling sources of nonpoint pollution. The assistance may be used by Tribes to plan for and implement work that is critically needed for Puget Sound restoration and protection. Such work includes priority actions or strategies in or consistent with the approved Section 320 CCMP for Puget Sound including, but not limited to, projects called for by established salmon recovery plans, except where the proposed work is inconsistent with applicable Federal law, regulation or published EPA policy. Additional information on use restrictions, if any, for the Puget Sound Protection and Restoration: Tribal Implementation Assistance Program, will be provided in each Request for Applications published on the EPA Region 10 website and on Grants.gov. Reports:

Recipients of this funding will be required to use EPA's Puget Sound Financial and Ecosystem Accounting Tracking System (FEATS), which is the primary mechanism for performance monitoring. Key grant outputs will be tracked on a semi-annual basis through FEATs as well as progress towards project milestones and deliverables. FEATS provides linkages to EPA Puget Sound performance measures and Dashboard Indicators. FEATS allows award recipients to share challenges, solutions, lessons learned, and reflections associated with their work. Expenditure reports will typically be required at the same time intervals as progress reports. The expenditure reports will document expenditures to date, including expenditures of any matching funds, in a manner that allows the report user to confirm that matching requirements, if any, are being met and that all assistance payments (disbursements to assistance recipients) are for costs that have been incurred in compliance with applicable costs principles. Please refer to "Progress Reports".

PROGRAM ACCOMPLISHMENTS:

Fiscal Year 2020: Here are some examples from Puget Sound Tribal grantees
Grantee has been a leader in multi-agency efforts to restore the Elwha River and other streams on the North Olympic Peninsula, as well as a largescale cleanup and restoration effort within Port Angeles Harbor. The Elwha River ecosystem is still in the early re-colonization stage of a 4-phase recovery 1) Preservation, 2) Re-colonization, 3) Local Adaptation, and 4) Viable Natural Population. Ecosystem recovery associated with these large-scale restoration projects will contribute significantly to the recovery of salmonids, forage fish, and shellfish populations in the Strait of Juan de Fuca and greater Puget Sound. The Tribe is observing positive signs of increase in Steelhead trout, Coho, and Chinook salmon stocks. Clam garden work has been highlighted in a Salish Sea Currents magazine article on Implementation Strategies sponsored by EPA - Puget Sound (<https://www.eopugetsound.org/magazine/IS/clam-garden>). The Tribe prepared a Climate Vulnerability Assessment report and model for habitat and associated fisheries in the inland waters of northern Washington State (https://swinomish.org/media/102218/fishvulmodel_final.pdf). This information informed preparation of a draft of the Climate Change Adaptation Strategies for Shellfish, which expands on the Tribes Climate Adaptation Plan. One such adaptation strategy is the restoration of clam gardening, an ancient Indigenous aquaculture technique that sustainably promotes native clam populations as well as supports tribal health and wellbeing. The Swinomish Fisheries Department and Community Environmental Health Program decided to initiate a clam garden project, see media coverage: (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/climate-solutions/2020/11/24/native-americans-climate-change-swinomish/?arc404=true>). Clam garden video was completed <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9dDesE4u07U> Draft principles for riparian restoration through new regulatory approaches drafted and shared with state-tribal riparian workgroup. A Climate Vulnerability Assessment report and model for habitat and associated fisheries in the inland waters of northern Washington State has been prepared (https://swinomish.org/media/102218/fishvulmodel_final.pdf). The Puget Sound Kelp Recovery Plan (<https://nwstraits.org/media/3020/pugetsoundkelpconservationandrecoveryplan.pdf>) was published. One Tribe has a long standing and much celebrated Outreach and Education program that includes classroom lessons, field trips, hatchery tours and festival participation. Outreach and education are important components to the Stillaguamish Watershed Chinook Salmon Recovery Plan and the Puget Sound

Action Agenda. Many of the ongoing recovery projects in the watershed require awareness, support, and involvement from the public. It is critical to work closely with the public and private landowners through outreach and education events. They can assist in identifying and implementing restoration and protection measures that will help improve recovery of Chinook Salmon in the Stillaguamish Watershed. In addition, working in local schools provides the opportunity to educate the future stewards of the Stillaguamish watershed through in-class lessons and service-learning projects, helping to create awareness, caring and protective behavior for this regions natural resources, impacts from climate change and protection of salmon and salmon habitat. A European Green Crab Early Detection and Monitoring program has been established in the Port Susan Bay of Whidbey Basin in Puget Sound, Washington. The primary objective of this project was to conduct green crab early detection critical to protecting the ecosystems of Port Susan and South Skagit Bay. Tribal staff completed a full season of trap trapping and found no evidence of green crabs. After years of negotiation, an agreement has been signed to purchase over 900 acres adjacent to the Tribe's reservation, a purchase and sale agreement for development rights on 18.4 acres of the former Port Gamble mill site, which will close in 2021 protecting the shoreline into perpetuity, and a Port Gamble master plan that will move forward to the permitting phase. This was a successful mediation that set the course for future generations of tribal members and residents around Port Gamble Bay to work collaboratively toward protecting resources and the Tribe's cultural way of life, as well as the economic vitality of the area.  A Tribe and the Puget Sound Salmon Recovery Council (SRC) are working to develop a regional Puget Sound recovery subcommittee to bring in Diversion, Equity, and Inclusion/Environmental Justice/tribal treaty rights into salmon and Puget Sound recovery. While this was originally a task for just the SRC, the Tribe and other subcommittee members will be recruiting additional members from other leadership Boards within the Puget Sound recovery community (Puget Sound Management Conference). Tribes have been involved in the Puget Sound Partnership-led process relating to diversity, equity, and inclusion, but will bring treaty rights elements here and relate them to the Healthy Environment for All (HEAL) Act, recently passed by the Washington Legislature. The subcommittees goal is to: Improve awareness of diversity, equity, and inclusion practices, environmental justice, and tribal treaty rights.

REGULATIONS, GUIDELINES, AND LITERATURE:

For grants and cooperative agreements with local governments, tribal governments and special purpose districts, the procedures and requirements should be in conformance with 2 CFR 200 and 1500 (EPA Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards); 40 CFR Part 33 (Participation by Disadvantaged Business Enterprises in United States Environmental Protection Agency Programs)

Ecosystem recovery associated with these large-scale restoration projects will contribute significantly to the recovery of salmonids, forage fish, and shellfish populations in the Strait of Juan de Fuca and greater Puget Sound. The Tribe is observing positive signs of increase in Steelhead trout, Coho, and Chinook salmon stocks. Clam garden work has been highlighted in a Salish Sea Currents magazine article on Implementation Strategies sponsored by EPA - Puget Sound (<https://www.eopugetsound.org/magazine/IS/clam-garden>). The Tribe prepared a Climate Vulnerability Assessment report and model for habitat and associated fisheries in the inland waters of northern Washington State (https://swinomish.org/media/102218/fishvulmodel_final.pdf). This information informed preparation of a draft of the Climate Change Adaptation Strategies for Shellfish, which expands on the Tribes Climate Adaptation Plan. One such adaptation strategy is the restoration of clam gardening, an ancient Indigenous aquaculture technique that sustainably promotes native clam populations as well as supports tribal health and wellbeing. The Swinomish Fisheries Department and Community Environmental Health Program decided to initiate a clam garden project, see media coverage: (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/climate-solutions/2020/11/24/native-americans-climate-change-swinomish/?arc404=true>).

Clam garden video was completed

The Puget Sound Kelp Recovery Plan

(<https://nwstrait.org/media/3020/pugetsoundkelpconservationandrecoveryplan.pdf>) was published. One Tribe has a long standing and much celebrated Outreach and Education program that includes classroom lessons, field trips, hatchery tours and festival participation. Outreach and education are important components to the Stillaguamish Watershed Chinook Salmon Recovery Plan and the Puget Sound Action Agenda. Many of the ongoing recovery projects in the watershed require awareness, support, and involvement from the public. It is critical to work closely with the public and private landowners through outreach and education events.

They can assist in identifying and implementing restoration and protection measures that will help improve recovery of Chinook Salmon in the Stillaguamish Watershed. In addition, working in local schools provides the opportunity to educate the future stewards of the Stillaguamish watershed through in-class lessons and service-learning projects, helping to create awareness, caring and protective behavior for this regions natural resources, impacts from climate change and protection of salmon and salmon habitat. A European Green Crab Early Detection and Monitoring program has been established in the Port Susan Bay of Whidbey Basin in Puget Sound, Washington. The primary objective of this project was to conduct green crab early detection critical to protecting the ecosystems of Port Susan and South Skagit Bay. Tribal staff completed a full season of trap trapping and found no evidence of green crabs. After years of negotiation, an agreement has been signed to purchase over 900 acres adjacent to the Tribe's reservation, a purchase and sale agreement for development rights on 18.4 acres of the former Port Gamble mill site, which will close in 2021 protecting the shoreline into perpetuity, and a Port Gamble master plan that will move forward to the permitting phase. This was a successful mediation that set the course for future generations of tribal members and residents around Port Gamble Bay to work collaboratively toward protecting resources and the Tribe's cultural way of life, as well as the economic vitality of the area.  A Tribe and the Puget Sound Salmon Recovery Council (SRC) are working to develop a regional Puget Sound recovery subcommittee to bring in Diversion, Equity, and Inclusion/Environmental Justice/tribal treaty rights into salmon and Puget Sound recovery. While this was originally a task for just the SRC, the Tribe and other subcommittee members will be recruiting additional members from other leadership Boards within the Puget Sound recovery community (Puget Sound Management Conference). Tribes have been involved in the Puget Sound Partnership-led process relating to diversity, equity, and inclusion, but will bring treaty rights elements here and relate them to the Healthy Environment for All (HEAL) Act, recently passed by the Washington Legislature. The subcommittees goal is to: Improve awareness of diversity, equity, and inclusion practices, environmental justice, and tribal treaty rights.

66.123 Puget Sound Action Agenda: Technical

ASSISTANCE LISTINGS DESCRIPTIONS

Investigations and Implementation Assistance Program

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Clean Water Act, Section 104(b)(3), Title Clean Water Act, Section 320, Title EPA Annual Appropriations Act,

OBJECTIVES:

Puget Sound has been designated as one of 28 estuaries of National Significance under section 320 of the Clean Water Act. The goal of the National Estuary Program is to attain and maintain water quality in designated estuaries that will assure protection of public water supplies and the protection and propagation of a balanced, indigenous population of shellfish, fish and wildlife and allows recreational activities in and on the water. The Puget Sound National Estuary Program's approved Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plan (CCMP), the Action Agenda, has a goal to restore and maintain the Puget Sound Estuary's environment by meeting 2018-2022 ecosystem targets. The Action Agenda for Puget Sound charts the course to recovery of our nation's largest estuary and complements and incorporates the work of many partners from around Puget Sound to describe regional strategies and specific actions needed to recover Puget Sound. These strategies and actions provide opportunities for federal, state, local, tribal, and private entities to better invest resources and coordinate actions. The EPA is committed to protecting and improving water quality and minimizing the adverse impacts of rapid development in the Puget Sound Basin. These commitments include protecting the watersheds and waters of Puget Sound by protecting the fundamental watershed processes that provide and create aquatic habitats and by reducing the generation and release of toxic, nutrient and pathogen pollution. This program has the following main objectives: First, implementing the approved CCMP, the Action Agenda for Puget Sound, is the primary objective of this program. Funds are directed to the highest priority work as articulated in biennial updates to the Action Agenda work plan. The updated biennial work plan identifies specific near term actions to achieve reductions in the harmful impacts on Puget Sound and restore previously damaged aquatic ecosystem functions. A central component of the approved CCMP for Puget Sound is its Biennial Science Work plan which identifies some of the core scientific work that must be completed in order for Action Agenda implementation efforts to succeed. This program is to support implementation of priority near term actions and to support the technical studies and investigations that are needed to help direct implementation priorities. Second, the Scientific Studies and Technical Investigations awards through this program will help support the tracking systems and evaluation approaches for implementation activities. Together with projects aimed at achievement of specific environmental outcomes, the science studies and technical investigations inform adaptive management of the program significantly contributing to the restoration and protection of Puget Sound. Funding Priorities - Fiscal Year 2021: From FFY2017-2021, a greater emphasis on direct implementation of near term actions, including Tribal and local priorities, will be the focus of the updated Action Agenda and the Puget Sound Program. Priority will be given to actions that fall in the three strategic initiatives of the Action Agenda and have been scientifically and technically reviewed for the likelihood of positive results to achieve targeted environmental outcomes. The three strategic initiative areas in the Action Agenda are: habitat protection and restoration for salmon and other Puget Sound aquatic species; water quality improvements to protect and improve shellfish growing areas; and control and prevention of pollution from stormwater. Funding will be continued for these three strategic initiative leads (SILs). As the core support for leadership and stewardship of Puget Sound science, the Puget Sound Action Agenda Implementation Strategies grants, new in FFY2021 will focus on: Award and manage subawards to support the implementation of the Action Agenda with a focus on Implementation Strategies, and maintain Strategic Initiative Advisory Teams (SIATs) to advise in investment-related decision-making; serve as Implementation Strategy Leads for Vital Signs related to the Strategic Initiative and form technical (e.g., Interdisciplinary Teams) and/or policy workgroups to develop, refine, adaptively manage, and operationalize Implementation Strategies, and participate in the Puget Sound Partnership and National Estuary Program (NEP) Management Conference processes and work groups. Proactively coordinate with tribal partners and Local Integrating Organizations (LIOs) in order to accomplish SIL work.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements, Cooperative Agreements (Discretionary Grants)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

The Puget Sound funds are for the development and implementation of programs that will improve water quality, air quality and minimize the adverse impacts of rapid development in the Puget Sound Basin, including activities linked to habitat restoration projects or controlling sources of nonpoint pollution. The assistance can be used to fund technical studies and investigations, as well as protection and restoration activities necessary to achieve environmental outputs and/or outcomes identified in the Puget Sound Action Agenda. The Action Agenda implementation work can either be funded directly or through a Strategic Initiative Lead entity which could then fund subawards for Action Agenda implementation activities. Funding may also be used to develop and carry out implementation strategies that map out steps to achieve progress and outcomes for a particular ecosystem target, management issue, or geographic area. Assistance can be used to finance work identified in the Puget Sound Partnership's Biennial Science Work Plan and can be used to manage, monitor, oversee, or participate in the implementation of the 2018-2022 Action Agenda. Funds can also be used to study, evaluate, model, plan, and prepare for the impacts of climate change on Puget Sound ecosystem protection and restoration activities. Assistance agreement awards under this program may involve or relate to geospatial information. Further information regarding geospatial information may be obtained by viewing the following website: Geospatial Resources at EPA (<https://www.epa.gov/geospatial>).

FEATS provides linkages to EPA Puget Sound performance measures and dashboard indicators. FEATS allows award recipients to share challenges, solutions, lessons learned, and reflections associated with their work. Expenditure reports will typically be required at the same time intervals as progress reports. The expenditure reports will document expenditures to date in a manner that allows the report user to confirm that all assistance payments (disbursements to assistance recipients) are for costs that have been incurred in compliance with applicable costs principles and, for assistance agreements in which a matching contribution is required, the reports will also document expenditures of that matching contribution. EXAMPLES OF FUNDED PROJECTS:

2020 Listed below are some examples of funded projects from the three Strategic Initiative Lead grants, the Puget Sound base grant and the science/implementation strategy grant. The Hood Canal community upgraded 66 acres of the Hood Canal 6 Shellfish Growing Area around Hoodport. Skagit County working using Microbial Source Tracking has succeeded in finding and fixing three significant pollution problems in their Pollution Identification and Correction (PIC) areas. A dairy and a small cattle farmer have both located and fixed problems including crushed drainage pipes and repairing and setting back fencing. A septic system that had previously been cleared by a dye test was also confirmed to be a source during high groundwater levels, and the Skagit County Health Department is following up with the owner. After finding dog poop markers at all sites, they have also created a renewed emphasis on cleaning up dog poop in yards in our PoopSmart campaign. Urban stormwater runoff has become the foremost water quality threat to aquatic habitats in Puget Sound. Human population growth continues to drive development and land conversion in coastal watersheds. Increased development reduces opportunity for water to filter through vegetation and soils, increasing the loading of toxic chemicals in stormwater runoff and into Puget Sound. This can have extensive negative impacts on the health and survival of salmon, as well as the levels of contaminants in both freshwater and marine food webs. EPA-supported collaborative research on stormwater and toxics reduction strategies have shown that: Motor vehicles are major sources of toxic contaminants in roadway runoff routinely discharged to streams, rivers, lakes, and nearshore marine habitats; There are thousands of distinct chemicals in urban stormwater, and the toxicological impacts of most remain poorly understood; Coho salmon are sensitive to untreated stormwater, which consistently causes mass mortality events that vary in severity across a gradient of urbanization in Puget Sound; The urban mortality syndrome poses a threat to other threatened salmonid species, including Puget Sound steelhead; Toxic threats to aquatic habitats scale in proportion to pavement and other impervious surfaces within large watersheds (e.g., the Snohomish River Basin), a basis for prioritizing green infrastructure mitigation efforts; Common petroleum-derived compounds in stormwater are also found in crude oil (e.g., the 1989 Exxon Valdez spill) and cause nearly identical developmental defects in the embryos of herring and other shore-spawning marine forage fish; Conventional green infrastructure methods involving bio-infiltration effectively remove pollutants and reduce or eliminate toxic impacts to salmon, forage fish, and invertebrates. Washington State Dairy Nutrient Management Program: 12 Best Management Practices (BMPs) implemented after technical assistance and noted at inspection. 3 BMP's implemented after some type of regulatory action such as warning letters. 8 referrals to local conservation district to assist with BMP's or financial assistance.  Skagit Public Works Pollution Identification and Correction (PIC): There has been a major success with a small commercial livestock producer during 2020. After water quality samples showed high level of fecal coliform last year, a commercial cattle ranch worked with Skagit Conservation District to fix the impairment identified. Follow up sampling shows that the fix has reduced runoff to almost nothing. It was a quick turnaround time from issue identified to issued corrected. WSU Pasture Management: Held two virtual workshop series to address pasture and livestock management practices, reaching 747 participants. Workshops were recorded and will be made publicly available for ongoing outreach. The Toxics in Fish Implementation Strategy Narrative outlines a recovery plan that is focused on reducing the levels and impacts of contaminants on Puget Sound aquatic life and the people who consume them. It includes a series of strategies that will prevent, mitigate, and cleanup toxics in aquatic life throughout Puget Sound. This will be the Puget Sound community's roadmap to recovery its the regional plan to get toxics out of aquatic food webs. With the guidance of the advisory team, the Stormwater Strategic Initiative Lead has also been able to explore developing a cross-cutting strategy to address various threats from transportation--including road runoff, transportation planning and land use, and retrofitting for water quality and fish passage. The Stormwater Strategic Initiative Lead has written blog posts, and to communicate our work in a way that helps make the Implementation Strategies more accessible and approachable. The Habitat Implementation Strategies Update Workplan for 2020-2021 was successfully implemented to develop a draft update of each

Implementation Strategy narrative. With the awardees Communications Lead's efforts, the Habitat Strategic Initiative Lead blog has increased the frequency of communications and the standardization of the work. They hosted several close-out webinars for subaward grants including the Shoreline Residential Revolving Loan Fund Feasibility Study and the Model Volunteer Program for Oil Spill Response / Assessment. The Habitat Strategic Initiative Lead has been exploring a Shared Investment Pilot to leverage investments in shared regional and local priority activities. They have been actively engaged in 2022-2026 Action Agenda development. Puget Sound agencies report on 52 Puget Sound Vital Sign indicators. 31 of which are associated with 2020 ecosystem recovery targets. Each indicator is evaluated for progress (change relative to a point back in time) and status (whether or not they meet their 2020 targets). On April 6, 2021, the PS Leadership Council approved a set of desired outcomes for the 2022-2026 Action Agenda. The Salish Sea Ecosystem Conference brings together scientists, First Nations and tribal government representatives, resource managers, community and business leaders, knowledge holders and policy makers. The 2020 conference was held virtually. The conference has become the premier scientific research and policy gathering in the Pacific Northwest. The presentations and discussions that occur at the Salish Sea Ecosystem Conference are a platform to build shared policies, practices, and procedures necessary to guide future actions for protecting and restoring the Salish Sea and its watersheds. The outcome is improved scientific collaboration, data sharing and dynamic discussions and on the state of the Salish Sea ecosystem. The State of Knowledge Report and the Base Program Analysis for the B-IBI Implementation Strategy were completed. The Toxics in Fish research and monitoring priorities have been incorporated into the Implementation Strategy. The Human Dimensions protocol has been adaptively managed, which includes updates, revisions, connections to Human Well Being Vital Sign data and academic literature, and a redesign. Protocol content has been integrated into Implementation Strategies, specifically Land Development and Cover and Marine Water Quality. Major success was co-creation of many Implementation Strategy social science products. Five magazine-style articles about science-related findings from the 2020 Salish Sea Ecosystem Conference have been completed. Four newsletters were published (12/19/20, 4/17/20, 6/30/20 and 9/28/20) that described the University of Washington Puget Sound Institute and other Puget Sound-recovery-related events and information. The Toxics in Fish Implementation Strategy fact sheet was completed. Ongoing, regular blogs and social media posts were completed. Ten magazine-style features and 10 shorter articles about Implementation Strategies and Vital Signs were completed. The Encyclopedia of Puget Sound has continually been updated and provides an indexed and searchable place for technical and supporting documents. An updated communication strategy of Implementation Strategy showing targeted audiences, timelines, and distribution channels has been completed. A Critical Analysis focused on refining an indicator for the Summer Stream Flows Vital Sign, was completed. A Critical Analysis focused on an evaluation of Stormwater Utility Fees in the Puget Sound watershed was completed.

66.306 Environmental Justice Collaborative Problem-Solving Cooperative Agreement Program

EJCPS,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act, Section 20(a), as amended by P.L. 106-74, Clean Water Act, Section 104(b)(3), Clean Air Act, Section 103(b)(3), Title Toxic Substances Control Act, Section 10(a), as amended by P.L. 106-74, Solid Waste Disposal Act, Section 8001(a), Title Safe Drinking Water Act, Section 1442(c)(3), Marine Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act, Section 203, Title National Environmental Policy Act, Section 102(2)(F)

OBJECTIVES:

The Environmental Justice Collaborative Problem-Solving (EJCPS) Cooperative

Agreement Program provides funding to support community-based organizations in their efforts to collaborate and partner with local stakeholder groups (e.g., local businesses and industry, local government, medical service providers, and academia) as they develop and implement solutions that address environmental and/or public health issues for underserved communities. For purposes of this listing, the term underserved community refers to a community with environmental justice concerns and/or vulnerable populations, including people of color, low income, rural, tribal, indigenous, and homeless populations. Eligible projects must demonstrate use of the Environmental Justice Collaborative Problem-Solving Model to support their collaborative efforts during the project period. Applying organizations should have a direct connection to the underserved community impacted by the environmental harms and risks detailed in the workplan. The long-term goals of the EJCPS Program are to help build the capacity of communities with environmental justice concerns and to create self-sustaining, community-based partnerships that will continue to improve local environments in the future. Funding Priorities - Fiscal Year 2021: 1) Public Education, Training, Emergency Planning, and/or Investigations on Impacts of COVID-19 on Underserved Communities and Vulnerable Populations (UPDATE 4/19/2021) American Rescue Plan (ARP) funds are being made available for projects that address health outcome disparities from pollution and the COVID19 pandemic and that identify and address disproportionate environmental or public health harms and risks in minority populations or low-income populations under: Clean Air Act, section 103 (b)(3) and the Safe Drinking Water Act, section 1442(c)(3). Currently understood science around COVID-19 transmission indicates that most transmission is via respiratory droplets, airborne transmission, and/or close contact with an infected person. Transmission from contaminated surfaces, while possible, appears to be less common. Additionally, reducing environmental or public health harms and risks in underserved communities requires a well-trained safe drinking water workforce. See Appendix A - Guidance on American Rescue Plan Funding for examples of which types of projects will be funded with ARP funds and which will be funded with EJ funds. NOTE: EJSF funds cannot be used for Human Health Studies, including taking blood or other medical information from humans. 2) Projects addressing Climate, Disaster Resiliency, and/or Emergency Preparedness The effects of climate change and extreme weather events tend to adversely impact the most vulnerable communities and populations disproportionately. Therefore, EPA may give special consideration to projects that address the needs of underserved and vulnerable communities that have been adversely impacted or are likely to be adversely impacted by natural disasters, including, but not limited to, hurricanes, tornadoes, wildfires, floods, earthquakes, and future pandemics. 3) New applicants and grantees - High ranking applicants who have never received an EPA EJCPS award may receive additional consideration during the selection process in order to broaden the universe of EJCPS grantees

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Safe Drinking Water Act, Section 1442(b)(3), Title Toxic Substances Control Act, Section 10(a), as amended by PL 106-74, Title Solid Waste Disposal Act, Section 8001(a), Title Marine Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act, Section 203, Title Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act, Section 20(a), as amended by PL 106-74, Title Clean Water Act, Section 104(b)(3), Title Clean Air Act, Section 103(b)(3)

OBJECTIVES:

The purpose of this cooperative agreement program is to support and/or create model state activities that lead to measurable environmental or public health results in communities disproportionately burdened by environmental harms and risks. These models should leverage or utilize existing resources or assets of state agencies to develop key tools and processes that integrate environmental justice considerations into state governments and government programs. The SEJCA program goals are to (1) achieve measurable and meaningful environmental and/or public health results in communities; (2) build broad and robust, results-oriented partnerships, particularly with community organizations within disproportionately impacted areas; (3) pilot activities in specific communities that create models, which can be expanded or replicated in other geographic areas; (4) reinforce connections to EPA regional EJ activities and priorities and, (5) strengthen the development and implementation of specific approaches to achieve environmental justice. Projects should leverage: (1) state and local data; (2) state and local leadership; (3) state and local results; (4) relationships between delegated programs (i.e. federal environmental programs delegated to and carried out by States) and state environmental justice policies, and (5) state targeting of disproportionately burdened areas.

OBJECTIVES:

The primary purpose of the proposed capacity building projects is to protect human health and the environment while advancing U.S. national interests through international environmental collaboration on environmental compliance and enforcement. International capacity building plays a key role in protecting human health, communities and the environment by providing technical cooperation to help countries improve environmental compliance and enforcement. OECA will work to transfer appropriate compliance and enforcement tools and techniques to key countries and regions as we collaborate with partners to improve compliance with domestic environmental laws in those countries. In addition, we will continue efforts to strengthen domestic, regional, and global networks on criminal and civil/administrative enforcement, build capacity in developing countries to monitor and enforce compliance with environmental laws, and share information with countries on targeting and advanced monitoring tools, environmental justice and enforcement, and addressing climate change. OECA plays a key role in ensuring trade-related activities support environmental protection, particularly related to effective enforcement of environmental laws. Initiatives relating to environmental trade and investment are carried out bilaterally, multilaterally or in connection with multilateral institutions such as the International Network for Environmental Compliance and Enforcement (INECE) and associated regional networks, including INTERPOL's Pollution Crimes Working Group. OECA will also provide targeted capacity building support under the environmental cooperation agreements developed parallel to U.S. free trade agreements. 66.432 State Public Water System Supervision

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Safe Drinking Water Act, Section 1443(a), Title Safe Drinking Water Act, Section 1451

OBJECTIVES:

The objective of these grants is to provide financial assistance to eligible States and Tribes, those that have Primary Enforcement Responsibility for the Public Water System Supervision (PWSS) Program, for implementation and enforcement of the requirements of the Safe Drinking Water Act that apply to public water systems. In cases where a State or a Tribe does not have a Primary Enforcement Responsibility program, EPA is authorized to use funds that would have otherwise been made available to the State or the Tribe to assist it in direct implementation of the PWSS program. The fundamental goal of the PWSS Program, and the grants, is to ensure that public water systems comply with the National Primary Drinking Water Regulations listed in 40 CFR 141. State drinking water agencies, which have Primary Enforcement Responsibility for the PWSS Program, and Indian Tribes that receive PWSS grants are to use them to ensure that public drinking water systems, of all types, and of all sizes: (1) are currently in compliance with the drinking water regulations and remain in compliance, (2) are working towards and in the process of achieving compliance when these systems are noncompliant, and (3) are preparing for future compliance with any new drinking water regulations that will be taking effect in the current or following year. Furthermore, State drinking water agencies, which have Primary Enforcement Responsibility for the PWSS Program, and Indian Tribes that receive PWSS grants are required to use the funds to update and maintain its PWSS program to comply with the National Primary Drinking Water Regulations Implementation requirements listed in 40 CFR 142 to ensure that the State or Tribal PWSS program is capable of conducting oversight of all public water systems as new drinking water rules, new public water systems, and/or drinking water program requirements become effective. Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2021: The priority for the PWSS grants is to ensure that the population served by community water systems will receive drinking water that meets all applicable health-based drinking water standards. This includes ensuring public water systems implement and comply with the all drinking water rules, including carefully considering any simultaneous compliance issues. Furthermore, EPA's priority is for States and Tribal PWSS Programs to meet the primary enforcement responsibilities. The primary components of a State or Tribal PWSS program are: (1) the adoption and implementation of State and Indian Tribe drinking water regulations at least as stringent as the Federal regulations; (2) the development and maintenance of database(s) of an inventory of public water systems and housing of public water system compliance information; (3) the conduct of sanitary surveys, which identifies sanitary deficiencies and requires that these deficiencies to be addressed, at public water systems; (4) the establishment and maintenance of a laboratory certification program for approval of laboratories to perform analyses of drinking water contaminants/analytes, including the assurance of adequate laboratory capacity to perform drinking water analyses; (5) the review of public water system plans and specifications; (6) the establishment of legal enforcement and authority to assess penalties to compel public water systems' compliance with the National Primary Drinking Water Regulations; (7) the adoption of regulations consistent with 40 CFR part 3 which deals with electronic documents; and (8) the adoption and implementation of an adequate plan for providing safe drinking water during emergency circumstances. In Fiscal Year 2021, of the funds provided, $10,000,000 is to further support States, Territories, and Tribes in addressing PFAS and other contaminants of emerging concern as they carry out their Public Water System Supervision programs.

66.437 Long Island Sound Program

Long Island Sound Study (LISS),

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Clean Water Act, Section 119(d), Title Clean Water Act, Section 320

OBJECTIVES:

The Long Island Sound Program: (1) implements the Long Island Sound Study (LISS) Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plan (CCMP); and (2) assists the states of Connecticut and New York and other public or nonprofit entities in implementation, research, planning, enforcement, and citizen involvement and education related to reducing pollution and improving the quality of the environment to sustain living resources in the Long Island Sound. Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2021: To award assistance agreements that support the Long Island Sound Study (LISS) National Estuary Program. Section 119(d) of the Clean Water Act, as amended by America's Water Infrastructure Act of 2018 Public Law No: 115-270, authorizes the Administrator to award grants to eligible entities to implement the LISS Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plan (CCMP), with special emphasis on implementation, research and planning, enforcement, and citizen involvement and education projects. The LISS management conference, with participants from state, interstate and regional environmental agencies, local governments and other public or nonprofit private agencies, research institutions and individuals, develops programs to protect and restore Long Island Sound. EPA also provides assistance through funds appropriated under Section 320 of the Clean Water Act (The National Estuary Program). The LISS program characterizes the problems in the estuary, determines relationships between pollutant loading and impacts on living resources, maintains a comprehensive plan recommending solutions to priority problems, and implements actions addressing priority problem areas. Activities focused on theme areas identified in the plan as requiring special attention, such as: clean waters and healthy watersheds; thriving habitats and abundant wildlife; sustainable and resilient communities; and sound science and inclusive management.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Cooperative Agreements (Discretionary Grants), Project Grants

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funds may be used to implement elements of the LISS CCMP. Special emphasis shall be given to CCMP implementation projects, research and planning, enforcement, and citizen involvement and education projects. The Administrator may give priority to a distressed community as defined in 33 USC 1269(e)(1). Assistance Listing 66.456 (National Estuary Program) also authorizes funding to assist in the implementation of the LISS CCMP. As a result an assistance agreement under assistance listing 66.437 to support implementation of the LISS CCMP can also use funds under assistance listing 66.456. Assistance agreement awards under this program may involve or relate to geospatial information. Further information regarding geospatial information may be obtained by viewing the following website: Geospatial Resources at EPA (<https://www.epa.gov/geospatial>).

EPA financial assistance programs and activities subject to intergovernmental review that are subject to review under State single point of contact procedures are identified at <https://www.epa.gov/grants/epa-financial-assistance-programs-subject-executive-order-12372-and-section-204-demonstration>. Applicants for programs or activities subject to Intergovernmental Review that are not subject to State single point of contact review must provide directly affected State, areawide, regional, and local entities at least 60 days to review their application following notification by EPA that the application has been selected for funding as provided by 40 CFR 29.8(a) and (c). The EPA Long Island Sound Office (LISO) issues annual guidance on the form and content of pre-applications. All pre-applications or work statements should be consistent with LISO's guidance. Consultation or technical assistance may be available upon request from the LISO to aid applicants in preparing their pre-application.

Application Procedures:

2 CFR 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost Principles, and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards applies to this program. Applicants, except in limited circumstances approved by the Agency, must submit all initial applications for funding through Grants.gov. to request additional information or clarification on applications through the LISO. The LISO coordinates review of pre-applications among the several LISS technical work groups and teams to ensure consistency with program goals and objectives as outlined in the CCMP and other priorities as directed by the management committee. If necessary, applicants are contacted by the LISO to provide the additional information or clarification. The LISO coordinates review of the revised applications and develops funding recommendations for the management committee's consideration in April. The management committee makes final recommendations on funding preproposals at that time, or as otherwise specified. Applicants are advised of the status of their request by the LISO within 30 days of the management committee's final decisions. Successful applicants are required to submit formal grant applications using the standard federal grant application forms. The deadline for submitting applications may vary by EPA Region, but is generally June 1st. Applications not received by the deadline are not further considered for funding. Unallocated funds are carried over or otherwise used to further the purposes of this program at the discretion of the management committee. Notice of Funding Opportunities (NOFO) for this listing will be posted on Grants.gov.

Award Procedure:

Each federal assistance application and final work plan will be evaluated by the LISO to determine the adequacy of the application under LISS priorities and objectives, including technical merit and relevance of the project to the implementation of the CCMP and for consistency with the pre-application. Each federal assistance award application will also be subject to an administrative review by the EPA Region 2 grants management office. Funds are awarded by the EPA Region 2 Administrator as appropriate. Grantees will receive a final assistance award package from the EPA Regional 2 grants management office. An assistance agreement recipient demonstrates its commitment to carry out the award by either: 1) drawing down funds within 21 days after the EPA award or amendment mailing date; or, 2) not filing a notice of disagreement with the award terms and conditions within 21 days after the EPA award or amendment mailing date. Recipients are not required to sign and return a copy of the award document.

Deadlines:

Contact the headquarters or regional location, as appropriate for application deadlines.

Range of Approval/Disapproval Time:

Statutory formula is not applicable to this assistance listing. Matching Requirements: Percent: 0%. Requirement: Matching requirements are mandatory. Federal costs for citizen involvement and education grants shall not exceed 95 percent of the costs of such work; for all other grants and cooperative agreements, federal costs shall not exceed 60 percent of the research, studies, or work. EPA has determined that annual matching requirements for LISS grant awards shall be met in the aggregate for all funds awarded as specified in the approved annual work plan. This program has no statutory formula (33 USC 1269(d)(3)). Federal costs for citizen involvement and education grants shall not exceed 95 percent of the costs of such work; for all other grants and cooperative agreements, federal costs shall not exceed 60 percent of the research, studies, or work. The nonfederal share can be contributed by any of the participants in the management conference. For awards containing both funds (Long Island Sound & National Estuary), the aggregate cost share must be calculated. 66.444 Lead Testing in School and Child Care Program Drinking Water (SDWA 1464(d))

SDWA 1464(d),

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Safe Drinking Water Act, Section Section 1464(d)

OBJECTIVES:

Funding is awarded to states, territories, and tribes to assist local educational agencies in voluntary testing for lead contamination in drinking water at schools and child care facilities. The principal objective of the assistance to be awarded under this program is to test schools and child care facilities for lead contamination in drinking water, using EPA's 3Ts for Reducing Lead in Drinking Water guidance or the at least equivalent applicable state regulations or guidance regarding reducing lead in drinking water in schools and child care facilities (see: <https://www.epa.gov/dwreginfo/3ts-reducing-lead-drinking-water-schools-and-child-care-facilities>). EPA's 3Ts, Training, Testing, and Taking Action, provide tools for schools, child care facilities, states, and water systems to implement voluntary lead in drinking water testing programs. Funding supports: (1) reducing children's exposure to lead in drinking water; (2) helping states and territories target funding toward schools unable to pay for testing; (3) using the 3Ts model, or at least equivalent model, to establish best practices for lead in drinking water prevention programs; (4) fostering sustainable partnerships at the state and local level to allow for more efficient use of existing resources and exchange of information among experts in various educational and health sectors; and (5) enhancing community, parent, and teacher cooperation and trust. Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2021: The priority is to continue awarding funds to reduce lead in drinking water in schools and child care facilities through planning, public education, testing and outreach. This voluntary effort focuses on contamination in drinking water at schools and child care programs that are in disadvantaged and low-income areas. The grant program requires EPAs 3Ts for Reducing Lead in Drinking Water in Schools guidance to develop and implement programs in schools and child care facilities, and to identify and correct sources of lead in drinking water.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Funding is available to eligible applicants to test for lead in drinking water using the Environmental Protection Agency's 3Ts for Reducing Lead in Drinking Water in Schools guidance or applicable state regulations or guidance. Funding should also be used for the administration of a testing program to include: (a) training, monitoring, and assessment of testing program; and (b) ensuring local educational agencies make available, if applicable, in the administration offices and, to the extent practicable, on the internet website of the local educational agency for inspection by the public, a copy of the results of any voluntary testing for lead contamination in school and child care facility drinking water program implemented with grant funds; and notify parent, teacher, and employee organizations of the availability of the results. Four percent of the funds can be used as a technical set aside for drinking water lead testing program training, assessment and monitoring. In accordance with the America's Water Infrastructure Act (AWIA) of 2018 2006 which amended the Water Infrastructure Improvement Act (WIIN) of 2017 2107, states or territories must assist in voluntary testing for lead contamination in drinking water at schools and child care programs that are in low-income areas. Under section 1464(d)(4) of the Safe Drinking Water Act, recipients may use up to 4% of the amount of federal funding for their grants for testing of lead contamination in school drinking water or child care facilities for administrative costs, including indirect costs under 2 CFR 200.414. Non-Federal entities that expend less than $750,000 a year in Federal awards are exempt from Federal audit requirements for that year, except as noted in 2 CFR 200.503. Grants and cooperative agreements are subject to inspections and audits by the Comptroller General of the United States, the EPA Office of Inspector General, other EPA staff, or any authorized representative of the Federal government. Reviews by the EPA Project Officer and the Grants Specialist may occur each year.

Records:

Recipients must keep financial records, including all documents supporting entries on accounting records and to substantiate changes in grants available to personnel authorized to examine EPA recipients grants and cooperative agreements records. Recipients must maintain all records until 3 years from the date of submission of final expenditure reports as required by 2 CFR 200.334. If questions, such as those raised because of audits remain following the 3-year period, recipients must retain records until the matter is completely resolved.

66.456 National Estuary Program

NEP,

FEDERAL AGENCY:

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

AUTHORIZATION:

Title Clean Water Act, Section 320

OBJECTIVES:

The National Estuary Program (NEP) goal is to protect and restore the water quality and estuarine resources of estuaries and associated watersheds designated by the EPA Administrator as estuaries of national significance. The 28 estuaries of national significance, or NEPs, use an ecosystem-based management approach to help achieve their protection and restoration goals. For example, each NEP characterizes the priority problems in its estuary and surrounding watershed, develops a long-term plan known as a Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plan (CCMP) that identifies actions to address those problems, and identifies partners, including lead entities, who will implement those actions. Implementation of CCMPs can include the following actions: protecting and restoring habitat, including wetlands; supporting water quality protection and restoration, including Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) plan implementation; monitoring for, assessing the extent of toxics loadings and pathogen contamination, and taking steps to address excess loadings and contamination; implementing stormwater management, reducing non-point source pollution impacts, and promoting the adoption of green infrastructure approaches; preventing the spread of aquatic invasive species and/or managing their impacts; developing and implementing nutrient reduction strategies; conducting climate vulnerability assessments and developing and implementing climate change adaptation strategies and using adaptation tools to promote coastal resilience; and developing and implementing strategies to provide opportunities for residents of urban minority and/or under-served communities to have greater access to urban waters, participate in urban ecosystem restoration, and participate in capacity-building/educational activities. In addition to CCMP implementation, NEPs and other eligible recipients, address urgent and challenging issues that threaten the ecological and economic well-being of coastal areas. Funding Priority - Fiscal Year 2021: EPA's funding priority is to award assistance agreements that support the 28 National Estuary Programs' (NEPs) efforts to address their estuarine watersheds' priority problems identified in each of the 28 long-term management plans known as Comprehensive Conservation and Management Plans (CCMPs). EPA will provide focused support for NEPs to address priority problems identified by NEP management conferences and to document accomplishments and environmental results. NEP efforts address such problems as: (1) impacts on estuarine water quality and living resources of nutrients, toxics (chemical, heavy metals), pathogen contamination, and sediment attributable to excess loadings and non-point stormwater runoff; e.g., excess nutrient loadings can result in nutrient over-enrichment and hypoxic conditions in estuarine water bodies; (2) habitat loss/degradation; (3) need to assess risks to CCMP implementation due to climate change impacts, to build regional, local, and tribal officials' capacity to address climate change impacts on NEP watersheds, and to promote community resilience; activities that build capacity include conducting vulnerability assessments of communities and local development and implementation of climate adaptation strategies and programs; and 4) need to build the capacity of local public officials and managers in estuarine communities to implement sustainable land use, green infrastructure, and low-impact development best practices. For FY21, EPA also funded through the NEP Coastal Watersheds Grant an intermediary organization to award subawards that support projects that address urgent and challenging issues that threaten the ecological and economic well-being of coastal and estuarine areas.

TYPES OF ASSISTANCE:

Project Grants, Project Grants (Discretionary)

USES AND USE RESTRICTIONS:

Section 320 authorizes issuance of assistance agreements used to meet Section 320 requirements to develop and implement CCMPs. Annual workplans, which address priority actions in the CCMPs, lay out projects to be undertaken during the fiscal year. They are developed and approved by each management conference. Twenty-eight estuaries have been designated as estuaries of national significance; those 28 are: Long Island Sound Study, Puget Sound Partnership, Buzzards Bay National Estuary Program, Narragansett Bay Estuary Program, New York-New Jersey Harbor Estuary Program, Delaware Center for the Inland Bays, Sarasota Bay Estuary Program, Galveston Bay Estuary Program, Santa Monica Bay National Estuary Program, Albemarle-Pamlico National Estuary Partnership, San Francisco Estuary Partnership, Casco Bay Estuary Partnership, Massachusetts Bays National Estuary Program, Indian River Lagoon National Estuary Program, Tampa Bay Estuary Program, Peconic Estuary Program, San Juan Bay Estuary Partnership, Coastal Bend Bays and Estuaries Program, Tillamook Estuaries Partnership, the Barataria-Terrebonne National Estuary Program, Piscataqua Region Estuaries Partnership, Barnegat Bay Partnership, Maryland Coastal Bays Program, Charlotte Harbor National Estuary Program, Mobile Bay National Estuary Program, Morro Bay National Estuary Program, and Lower Columbia Estuary Partnership. NEPs and their partners carry out such actions as: (1) protecting and restoring habitat; (2) identifying research needs and conducting research as needed to obtain new data to address priority problems; (3) monitoring estuarine conditions to detect changes in water quality and condition of ecosystem resources; and (4) providing technical assistance to States and local communities to address impacts from nutrient over-enrichment, stormwater, sedimentation, toxics, pathogens, and aquatic invasive species; to assess vulnerability from climate change impacts; and to develop climate change adaptation strategies and tools. Additionally, section 320 authorizes issuance of competitive assistance agreements to address urgent and challenging issues that threaten the ecological and economic well-being of coastal areas. The NEP Coastal Watersheds Grant is anticipated to fund one cooperative agreement to an intermediary organization to issue subawards to support projects that address urgent and challenging issues that threaten the ecological and economic well-being of coastal and estuarine areas. Issues in coastal areas include (1) extensive seagrass habitat losses resulting in significant impacts on fisheries and water quality; (2) recurring harmful algae blooms; (3) unusual marine mammal mortalities; (4) invasive exotic species that may threaten wastewater systems and cause other damage; (5) jellyfish proliferation limiting community access to water during peak tourism seasons; (6) flooding that may be related to sea level rise or wetland degradation or loss; (7) low dissolved oxygen conditions in estuarine waters and related nutrient management. Assistance agreement awards under this program may involve or relate to geospatial information. Further information regarding geospatial information may be obtained by viewing the following website: Geospatial Resources at EPA (<https://www.epa.gov/geospatial>).
