A&CC’s B-1 Kohler 50KW NG Generator Relocation

Description of Services/Introduction:

The contractor shall provide all personnel, equipment, tools, materials, supervision, and other items and non-personal services necessary to perform the disconnection, relocation, installation, reconnection in a contract supplied/provided weather-proof enclosure of a Kohler 50KW NG Backup Generator as defined in this Performance Work Statement, except as Specified in section C-3 as government furnished property and services at 765 Technology Drive, Triadelphia, WV A&CC’s Building 1. The contractor shall perform to the standards in this contract.

Background:

The mission of the Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) is to administer the provisions of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977 (Mine Act), the Miner Act of 2006 and to enforce compliance with mandatory safety and health standards as a means to eliminate fatal accidents; to reduce the frequency and severity of nonfatal accidents; to minimize health hazards; and to promote improved safety and health conditions in the Nation’s mines.

As a regulatory organization, MSHA’s jurisdiction includes the Nation’s mining industry, which consists of coal, metal, and nonmetal mines, including both underground and surface operations.

Just as mining is essential to the American economy, a safe and healthy mining workforce is essential to the mining industry as a whole. The mining environment is inherently hazardous. Unseen geologic instabilities, constantly changing terrain, the prevalence of large and complex haulage and mining equipment are only a few of the factors that make maintaining mine safety a continuing challenge.

To meet this challenge and accomplish its mission of protecting the safety and health of the Nation’s miners, MSHA develops and enforces safety and health rules applying to all U.S. mines, fosters compliance, and makes available technical, educational, and other types of assistance. More specifically, MSHA conducts mine inspections; investigates mine accidents, fatalities, discrimination accusations, hazardous conditions complaints, and other potential violations; issues citations and collects financial penalties; develops improved safety and health standards and policies; evaluates and approves mine plans as well as some equipment and materials used in mines; provides mine emergency response capabilities; trains and certifies mine safety and health professionals; and develops and delivers education and training programs and materials.

MSHA’s Approval and Certification Center (A&CC), located in Triadelphia, West Virginia consists of 96 acres of property and numerous buildings that house laboratories, offices, and storage. The A&CC approves and certifies certain mining products for use in underground coal and gassy underground metal mines. Technical experts evaluate and test equipment, instruments, and materials for compliance with Federal Regulations. Products evaluated and tested range from extremely small electronic devices to very large mining systems. Following successful completion of evaluation and testing of a product, a license is issued authorizing a manufacturer to produce and distribute products for use in mines. The MSHA approval issued by the Center is internationally recognized. The Center performs other technical functions in support of MSHA's programs, including investigations of safety and health concerns relating to product approvals; litigation assistance on issues involving approved products; accident investigation assistance when an explosion, fire, injury or fatality involves or may involve approved equipment; identification of the need for technical solutions to problems in application of mining equipment, materials, and explosives; technical assistance in developing new or revised Federal standards and regulations; and research assistance to other Government agencies on research programs that directly relate to MSHA. The Center also provides engineering support and technical assistance in the area of industrial safety.
